SNOW CAN BE BEAUTIFUL

Snow can be beautiful, but even skiers don't always think so. Some 2,000 to 3,000 skiers were marooned after 24 inches of snow blanketed Mt. Snow Valley in Vermont. Early yesterday an unexpected snowstorm struck the eastern section of the country, with blustery winds and rain in some areas creating conditions that caused a rash of accidents.

Water from heavy rains short-circuited wiring at a Queens shopping center, starting a fire that burned out the building as 60-mile winds fanned the flames.

Winter Strikes Violent Blow; Unusually Early Storm Severe

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Winter struck the East Coast a violent blow Tuesday, arriving almost six weeks early and lashing the land and coastal waters with brutal winds and blinding snow or rain.

The unusually early and severe storm raged up the coast from the Deep South Monday night, hammered the mid-Atlantic states early Tuesday then moved on to New England and northern New York carrying with it forecasts of deep snows and gale winds.

In the South, behind the storm came frigid air swinging down from Canada.

Several deaths were attributed to the storm, and along the coast several small vessels were in distress as 60-knot winds whipped the sea into waves up to 35 feet high.

In New York, hundreds of Staten Island commuters were stranded for hours on ferries out in New York Harbor as waters rose too high to dock the vessels.

A Bronx-to-Queens bridge swayed so much in the high winds that motorists left their cars and fled in terror, creating a jam that forced the closing of the bridge.

Hundreds of schools were closed all over the area as snow piled up in mountain and inland areas as high as 15 inches.

On Wallops Island off the Virginia coast one wind gust was clocked at 100 miles an hour and the wind blasted the island for hours at 80 miles an hour—full hurricane force.

In New Jersey an ocean retaining wall collapsed along the Monmouth County coastline and 3,000 people had to be evacuated in rowboats from waist-deep water.

Trees and limbs blown down by the high winds blocked roads, railroads and subway lines, and tore down power lines.

In New York, several streets had to be closed because of dangerous flying debris from skyscraper construction projects.

Water from heavy rains short-circuited wiring at a Queens shopping center, starting a fire that burned out the building as 60-mile winds fanned the flames.

At Ocean City, Md., a beach resort, the winds blew off the roofs of hotels and houses.

Off Ocracoke, N.C., a traveler's cargo of fish caused her to list and take on water and the boat, only two miles off shore, was unable to reach land because of heavy seas.

Police Chief Evan Urges Total Preparedness for Winter

Chief of Police Michael Evan's recent plea for a "total preparedness" program involving all private vehicles in Warren to avoid winter traffic tieups has raised questions from car owners concerning special tires and traction aids. "I'll not resort to guesswork," Chief Evan said in answering these questions. "I have the facts available from tests conducted by the National Safety Council's Committee on Winter Driving Hazards."

The facts referred to the council committee's evaluations of the efficiency of regular tires, snow tires, studded snow tires and reinforced tire chains when used on the rear wheels. Regular tires with good treads were the basis for all comparisons.

Conventional Snow Tires (without studs) improved stopping ability on loosely packed snow by 13 percent but showed no advantage in stopping on glare ice.

Snow tires improved stopping power on ice, however, by 28 percent and by 50 percent on loosely packed snow. Studded Snow Tires (now legal in most states) improved stopping on glare ice by 19 percent; and had three times more pulling power on ice than regular tires.

Reinforced Tire Chains stood out as the most effective aid for both starting and stopping under severe winter conditions. They provided a 50 percent improvement in stopping ability and were more than seven times better at pulling on glare ice than regular tires.

On loosely packed snow, they were 37 per cent better at stopping; and they pulled four times better than regular tires. So much for Safety Council facts.

The International Association of Chiefs of Police recommends that tire chains as well as sand, salt, cinders or traction mats are emergency aids which should be in your truck ready to help you get started when all else fails.

Chief Evan ended his comments on this note: "Regardless of efforts to improve traction through the use of snow tires, studded snow tires, or tire chains, in no instance can the driver stop or go nearly as well as with conventional highway tires on dry pavement."

That simply means a change in driving habits on winter glazed roads: ... slow down ... brake early ... and plan every maneuver well in advance."

Clifford Accuses Saigon of Balking In 'Ninth Inning'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Clark M. Clifford accused Saigon Tuesday of balking in the "ninth inning" of Vietnam peace efforts and said the United States may have to continue negotiating alone.

The defense chief said President Johnson is discussing with the South Vietnamese their insistence on speaking in Paris as the No. 1 party for the allies, but he said the President faces a crucial decision.

"I think he will continue to confer with the Saigon government until he reaches the conclusion as to whether he is going to go with them or whether he shall go without them," Clifford told newsmen.

"But I believe that the decision will have to be made. We are still hopeful that it will be the former."

In Paris, Pham Dang Lam, head of the South Vietnamese observers, denied his government had "gone back on its word."

"The truth is," he added, Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker and President Nguyen Van Thieu "met more than 10 times and did not arrive at an accord."

The Paris peace talks scheduled have been left up in the air as a result of the South Vietnamese stand.

Originally the United States and South Vietnamese representatives were to have met with the North Vietnamese and with the Communist political organization in South Vietnam, the National Liberation Front, on Nov. 6.

Clifford was red-faced and obviously annoyed as he defended a result of the South Vietnamese stand. Johnson for proceeding with his Oct. 31 announcement of a bombing halt and peace breakthrough even though, as it turns out, South Vietnam has suddenly become reluctant.

"He had a deal with Hanoi in Paris," Clifford said. "He had worked on it for six months ... I felt that he was committed, See CLIFFORD, Page 2

There had been speculation that this might be taken up at a meeting between Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin and President Johnson, but prospects vanished in the wake of the invasion.

Malik dwelt only briefly on the matter in a mildly worded speech to the political committee. He noted that U.S.-Soviet agreement had been reached to hold talks, and said his government "is now ready without delay to undertake a serious exchange of views on this question."

He made no mention of Czechoslovakia, or any reason for delay in implementing the talks.

Malik introduced a resolution that would have the General Assembly refer back to Geneva Soviet proposals for disarmament, and also a complete record of all debate in the committee on disarmament. This would include any proposals by the United States and other members of the United Nations.

The Geneva committee would be instructed to report back to next year's assembly on its efforts to make progress on disarmament.

Nixon Says He Will Appoint Harlow As Special Assistant

NEW YORK (AP) — President-elect Richard M. Nixon announced Tuesday he intends to appoint Bryce N. Harlow, a White House aide in the Eisenhower administration, as a special assistant to the president.

Nixon made the announcement of the first major appointment of his administration through a press aide as he settled into his Fifth Avenue apartment in storm-swept New York City, turning his attention to the nuts and bolts of the transfer of power.

Harlow, 52, of Arlington, Va., was a deputy assistant to President Dwight D. Eisenhower and was a key Nixon aide during the 1968 campaign.

Ron Zeigler, the aide, said Harlow will concern himself with "management of legislative and congressional affairs for President Nixon."

Harlow told newsmen at a briefing there will be a group of special assistants to the president in the new administration, but no single No. 1 man such as Sherman Adams when Eisenhower was president.

He said he did not anticipate any more difficulty working with the Democrats than President Eisenhower had.

"You present, as best you can, programs that are as acceptable as possible, regardless of the accident of one party being in control or the other," he said.

Harlow has been on leave of absence as director of governmental relations for Procter & Gamble Company and said he intends to remain on leave of absence. He had been with Procter & Gamble since 1961.

During his eight years with the Eisenhower administration, Harlow handled writing assignments and congressional relations.

During World War II, he served on Gen. George C. Marshall's staff handling Army relations with Congress.

Harlow a native of Oklahoma City, Okla., joined the Nixon campaign on a full-time basis Sept. 5. He is a colonel in the U.S. Army Reserve.

Harlow is married to the former Betty Larimore. They have See NIXON, Page 2

Thirteen American commercial airliners have been forcibly diverted to Havana this year—the most recent on Nov. 4.

So Agnew, his family and attendants were assigned a twin-engine Air Force Convair 580 for the flight of nearly 2,000 miles from Baltimore via Patrick Air Force Base, Fla., to San Juan on Monday.

Flying in stormy weather, the 24-seat craft averaged only 280 miles an hour. Agnew said lightning hit the plane twice, but it apparently was undamaged and no one was hurt. He seemed unconcerned.

The first bolt hit when the plane was about an hour off the Florida coast.

"It lit up the plane," a passenger said, "and Agnew went to talk with the pilot to see what had happened."

Thunderstorms pursued the plane during most of its flight and the second apparently struck about an hour later.

The party included Agnew's wife, Judy, their four children and a granddaughter, Michelle Anne. Also along were several friends and Secret Service men.

Space Agency Gives Go-Ahead For First Flight Around Moon

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States gave the go-ahead Tuesday for man's first flights around the moon this Christmas Eve.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration ordered the bold journey to the lunar unknowns after what it called "careful and thorough examination of all systems and the risks and benefits involved."

The Apollo 8 astronauts—Frank Borman, James A. Lovell and William A. Anders—are to be launched from Cape Kennedy, Fla., Dec. 21 and go into orbit some 70 miles above the moon on Christmas Eve, if things work out as planned.

During 10 lunar orbits over a 20-hour period, they plan to take photographs of the lunar surface. They particularly want to survey the lunar equatorial area upon which another Apollo team may land late next year.

Assuming NASA can keep to the plan, here's what the astronauts will do:

They will carry along television equipment with which they will send back several TV shows along the order of those transmitted from earth or at last month by the Apollo 7 astronauts.

If the cameras and transmitters are working properly, they will send back their first program from well along on the path toward the moon, 31 hours after launch.

The second showing will come

55 hours after liftoff, or about 11 hours before attainment of lunar orbit. It thus should provide a striking view of the approach to the moon.

The astronauts will attempt to send back television views three times while they circle the moon Christmas Eve and Christmas Day—on the first, second and ninth orbits.

No plans were indicated for further TV shows on the 57-hour return flight.

Dr. Thomas O. Paine, NASA's acting administrator, said the decision to make the most ambitious flight possible with the current version of the Apollo spacecraft was reached only at 4 p.m. EST Monday, following conferences among the top personnel involved.

17, of 4 Newhall lane, collided at Pennsylvania avenue W. and the Hickory street bridge. Officer Musante said Yeagle reported he did not see the Bobelak car while attempting to make a left turn onto the bridge.

Another in the series of accidents Tuesday resulted in about $700 property damage. An auto operated by Ross W. Kremer, 26, of 1106 Conewango ave. skidded while crossing the Fifth street bridge, and struck a car being driven by Harry D. Rosequist, 56, of 17 W. 5th st., police said.

and he felt that he had to go ahead on his commitment."

Clifford said the switch in South Vietnamese attitude came on the very eve of Johnson's announcement that U.S. planes would stop bombing North Vietnamese territory on Nov. 1.

Despite a flurry of last-minute cables and diplomatic huddling, the Saigon government refused to change its stand and in fact, Clifford said, came up with "a whole new set of concerns and objections" about stopping the attacks.

Voice rising, finger jabbing the air, Clifford said Johnson "owed it to the American people" to go ahead nevertheless with his peace drive.

"He worked through 5 1/2 months to reach an agreement that he thought could be a major step toward peace, and then in the last out of the ninth inning, why, suddenly, they say 'No, we can't go along,'" Clifford said.

"I believe the President was absolutely right in not giving Saigon a veto over the plan."

At the White House, press secretary George Christian was asked whether Clifford was speaking for the President. He replied that Clifford was "expressing his views as he sees things."

The defense secretary's sharp remarks on the Washington-Saigon squabble highlighted a news conference in which he also:

- In effect warned Hanoi that recent artillery attacks across the Demilitarized Zone are a violation of the general understanding the United States had when it stopped the bombing of North Vietnam.

- Said he has recommended to President-elect Richard M. Nixon that a new secretary of defense be appointed by mid-December to give the man a month's time to become oriented before taking over Jan. 20.

- Said he will go to Brussels Wednesday for a NATO ministers meeting whose main purpose "is to consider the impact of the Soviet incursion into Czechoslovakia upon NATO, what lessons we should draw therefrom and what steps we should take."

Rusk Predicts No Change
In Atlantic Alliance Policy

BRUSSELS (AP) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk arrived Tuesday for his last talks with top-level NATO ministers and predicted there would be no change in Atlantic alliance policy under the administration of President-elect Richard M. Nixon.

"This has been a bi-partisan policy developed over many years," Rusk said, "and I do not see why there should be any change."

Rusk and other members of President Johnson's Cabinet will participate Thursday, Friday and Saturday in the semi-annual NATO conference. The meeting is being held six weeks early this year to mark the concern of the alliance over the Soviet-led invasion of Czechoslovakia last Aug. 20.

Gen. Lyman L. Lemnitzer, supreme allied commander in Europe, took sharp issue during the day with those who, he said, try to wish away the readiness and capability of the Russians to use force after the invasion of Czechoslovakia.

Risks to Western Europe are now markedly higher, he said in an address to the Atlantic Assembly, made up of members of the U.S. Congress and parliaments of the 14 other members of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

"While to me the capabilities of the Warsaw Pact powers are quite clear," he added, "what is equally clear is the willingness of the Soviet Union to use those capabilities when she considers that her national interest is at stake. She is willing to use that power without even regard to the reactions of the Communist world."

The Russians now have a larger and more usable combat force, farther forward, better prepared and supported than they have had since 1945, he said.

"The military balance in central Europe has been significantly altered to the disadvantage of the West."

Lemnitzer urged improvements in training, equipment and mobilization of Western forces.

Suffering from laryngitis, he gave his speech to his deputy, Gen. Sir Robert Bray of Britain, to read.

The Brussels meeting coincided with a congress of the Polish

Communist party in Warsaw at which Leonid I. Brezhnev boasted Communist military might is so great "imperialists" are afraid of a military defeat in a direct clash.

The Atlantic Assembly met Monday, 50th anniversary of the World War I armistice, for a week's session. Now Cabinet ministers and top military leaders from all over Western Europe and North America are beginning to arrive for the semi-annual top-level meetings of the North Atlantic Council Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

U.S. officials said that one of the main subjects will be the "gray area"—those lands of Europe and the Mediterranean which belong neither to the Atlantic Alliance nor to the Soviet zone of influence. One of the great uncertainties after the Soviet-led invasion of Czechoslovakia in August has been what the Russians may do in this region.

Nixon

three children, Margery, 25, Trudy, 23, and Larry, 19, a sophomore at Old Dominion College.

The president-elect "got up at an early hour," a press aide told newsmen at a briefing, and conferred with key staff members, including his law partner and campaign manager John Mitchell, on the details of taking over from President Johnson on Jan. 20.

But there were no further details forthcoming on the substance of Nixon's meeting Monday with Johnson, Ron Zeigler, the press aide, declined comment on questions regarding a possible Nixon role in Vietnam peace efforts and on the matter of sending an observer to the Paris talks.

Ziegler said there probably will be another meeting between the President and president-elect before the Republican Governors' Conference, due to start Dec. 3 in Palm Springs, Calif. Nixon expects to be there Dec. 5.

The press aide was vague on how long the president-elect would remain in New York. He did not discount the possibility of a trip within the country this week.

Asked if Nixon plans any foreign travel before the inaugural, Ziegler said: "No. He plans no foreign travel, unless in conversation with the President it could be determined that foreign travel would be helpful."

Nixon had no appointments scheduled with anyone other than his own staff members Tuesday, Ziegler said, as other staff workers continued setting up offices at the Hotel Pierre for the transfer of government.

The Nixon camp has rented three floors of the hotel, setting up major offices on the 39th floor and other offices on the 12th and 14th. The hotel is at Fifth Avenue and 61st Street, alongside Central Park.

Ziegler said one of the 39th-floor offices would be occupied by California Lt. Gov. Robert H. Finch, whom he said is planning to return shortly from California.

Finch, one of Nixon's closest advisers, said Monday he will not be part of the president-elect's White House staff, but did not rule out a Cabinet post.

Among other key aides who talked with Nixon Tuesday, according to Ziegler, were H. R. Haldeman, his chief of staff during the campaign; Bryce Harlow, a White House aide during the Dwight D. Eisenhower administration; and John Ehrlichman, tour director for the campaign and a principle adviser.

The press aide said Nixon had no immediate plans to meet with either New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, whom he defeated for the Republican nomination, or New York City Mayor John V. Lindsay.

There have been no press conferences planned for Nixon, Ziegler said, noting that he met reporters in Key Biscayne, Fla., and in Washington on Monday.

He returned to New York Monday night.

Nixon's daughters, Julie and Tricia, also have returned to New York.

day, Friday and Saturday.

U.S. officials said that one of the main subjects will be the "gray area"—those lands of Europe and the Mediterranean which belong neither to the Atlantic Alliance nor to the Soviet zone of influence. Ray Wins Postponement
Of Trial Until March 3

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — James Earl Ray won a postponement Tuesday until March 3 of his first-degree murder trial in last spring's assassination of the Rev. Martin Luther King Jr. The defendant was reported hopeful of doing better when the Republican national administration takes over early next year.

The state vigorously but vainly opposed the continuance granted by Criminal Court Judge W. Preston Battle in favor of Ray, a 40-year-old escaped convict.

"He's been here four months or better and it appears to me he's trifling with the court," said Asst. Dist. Atty. Gen. Robert K. Dwyer. He referred to Ray's return to Memphis after his capture June 8 in London, England. The defendant had been the target of the greatest manhunt in American history.

"... The State of Tennessee is ready for trial," Dwyer continued. "We have something like 90 witnesses alerted nationally and in various parts of the world to come in here."

"What assurances are there that at the last moment the defendant might not come in and say, 'I don't want this gentleman here'?"

Whereupon Dwyer nodded toward 6-foot-4 criminal lawyer Percy Foreman, who took over the defense only last Sunday night from Arthur Hanes, 52, former mayor of Birmingham, Ala.

"It's a unique case in the eyes of the world, but it's still a piece of business," added Dwyer, 45, a peppery, grey-haired prosecutor.

Hanes said he was fired because of Ray's insistence that the scheduled opening of the trial be delayed, hopeful that he

Jamestown Plans Third
Parking Ramp Downtown

JAMESTOWN — The Jamestown Planning Commission took steps Tuesday afternoon to get plans moving for the city's third parking ramp in the downtown area. The commission was on record approving a $3,500 study by National Garages Inc., Detroit, for a third ramp to be located at the end of the city's business district.

The new ramp would more than likely be located on either Spring st. or Prendergast ave. and would serve City Hall employees as well as patrons of area businesses.

National Garages Inc. planned the city's first ramp at Main and Second sts. and the 350-car ramp now under construction on Cherry st.

The Cherry st. ramp is scheduled for completion shortly before the Christmas holidays. The third ramp would be constructed with the financial aid from merchants, and possibly a grant from city taxpayers, since it would serve City Hall personnel.

The possibility also exists that the new parking deck could be located within the boundaries of the city's second urban renewal project, in which case, it would qualify for some federal financial support.

New Building
Approved
For College

JAMESTOWN — City Council Tuesday night gave unanimous approval to a resolution to retain local architects, Naetaker, Thorsell and Dove, to design a new class room building and learning center at Jamestown Community College.

The new building, to cost in the neighborhood of one million dollars, is scheduled to be constructed northwest of the new Science and Engineering Building and Fine Arts Center, now nearing completion on the local campus.

Naetaker, Thorsell and Dove, with offices on Front st., were also architects for the Science Engineering Building and Fine Arts Center.

The college board of trustees recommended the local architectural firm to City Council. A college spokesman said 50 per cent of the construction cost will be borne by the state of New York and that a campaign will be conducted in the Jamestown area to raise the balance.

Federal funds will also be sought to defray part of the cost. The college spokesman emphasized, however, the city of Jamestown is not being asked to appropriate tax dollars for the new construction program.

Peak Attendance
At Jefferson School

Jefferson St. School had nearly 100 per cent attendance during its open house Monday night. The observance, held in connection with American Education Week, gave parents an opportunity to meet teachers and learn of their children's progress in school.

Parents visited class rooms during the evening's program. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Chester Munksgard, chairman; Mrs. Nick Tassone, Mrs. William Hesch, Mrs. Carlson and Mrs. Elliott. Refreshments were donated by second and sixth grade mothers.

With Forgery

An 11-year-old juvenile has been apprehended by borough police and charged with forgery.

The juvenile, whose name was withheld because of age, admitted to entering a local residence, making off with a checkbook and later cashing a forged check in the amount of $5 at a local service station.

The youth has been turned over to the juvenile authorities for the incident which came to the attention of borough police Oct. 28.

Cards Would Help

Being hospitalized is no way to spend a birthday, but a few cards from his friends in the area could make the day more cheerful for Magnus John Gregerson, Clarendon.

Magnus is a patient at St. Vincent's Hospital, Erie, where he recently underwent surgery for a severe back injury sustained when he was struck Oct. 17 by a falling tree.

He will be celebrating his birthday Nov. 14. For those friends who wish to send cards the cards should be addressed to Magnus John Gregerson, Room 487, St. Vincent's Hospital, Erie, Pa.

THIRD IN A SERIES

Vo-Tech Education Major Consideration in Plans

(Editor's Note: During the observance of National Education Week, Nov. 10-16, we feel it's appropriate to publish this series of articles authored by Dr. Thomas K. Barratt, Warren County superintendent of schools, and his staff, which outline the district's long range plans and is prepared in response to a state mandate. The report will be reviewed by the Warren County School District board at its Nov. 18 meeting.)

This portion of the series, like the preceding article, continues to deal with the estimate of building needs within the Warren County School District.

(C) Vocational - Technical Education. The study has revealed substantial interest in vocational - technical education by students, parents, and industry.

Evidence from surrounding districts already operating Vo-Tech Schools shows that applications far exceed the capacity of schools, that graduates appear to be in demand by industry, and that adults also make use of the Vo-Tech facilities, through evening classes, for learning new skills, upgrading present skills, or retraining.

Approximately 65 per cent of the graduates of the Warren County School District do not, at present, continue their education in four-year colleges or universities. The educational needs of many of these students may be better met by a Vo-Tech program in conjunction with a proper academic program, than by either a vocational program or a general education program as separate systems.

Based on student surveys, industrial surveys, and discussion with personnel of Vo-Tech Schools, Vocational Education Department of the Department of Public Instruction, local schools, business, industry, and residents, consideration is being given to the construction of a Vocational-Technical School for the district.

Pupils of grades 10, 11, 12 could attend this school on a 1/2 day basis - 1/2 day at the "home" high school for all academic and general classes, extra curricular programs, lunch, etc., and 1/2 day at the Vo-Tech School for specialized programs. Proposed areas of instruction for the school are:

1. Automotive Mechanics
2. Carpentry (Cabinet making)
3. Distributive Education
4. Drafting
5. Electronics
6. Food Service
7. Graphic Arts
8. Health Assistant
9. Machine Shop
10. Scientific Data Processing
11. Sheet Metal

Placement of such a school on the same site as Warren Area High School could keep transportation costs to a minimum, provide actual reduction in student attendance at any given time in Warren Area

High School, thus helping prevent overcrowding. (Students can be divided in A.M. and P.M. groups since no transportation is involved), eliminates cost of acquiring additional land for construction, and requires minimum cost to gain access to site and provide utilities for the building.

Transportation for Vo-Tech can be utilized to make available specialized secondary programs, such as Advanced Placement Courses, to any pupil of the district, regardless of "home school" by concentrating such programs in the Warren Area High School building - thus improving specialized services and courses for ALL students, with little added transportation cost.

In accordance with the above, believing a large number of pupils of the district will benefit from Vo-Tech programs, it is suggested that an 11 instructional area of Vo-Tech School, of 485 pupil capacity be placed on the present 107 acre Warren Area High School site.

(D) Conewango Township Elementary Schools. The present Starbrick Elementary School enrolls 178 pupils. There are 4 classrooms in this school, which was constructed 40 years ago, and 2 relocatable classrooms erected in 1967.

Studies indicate that no reduction in student enrollment can be anticipated in the near future.

To provide more suitable facilities, including proper cafeteria, physical education, library, health and office areas, a kindergarten - 6 school should be constructed on or near the present school site, east of Yankee Bush Road, north of Route 6. Architect should consider possible use of existing structure.

The older portion of North Warren Elementary School, built in 1917, should be replaced.

The 1968 enrollment of kindergarten - 6 is 452. Home construction and trailer court construction indicate an increase in enrollment can be anticipated for this area of the district.

The present one acre site is scarcely large enough for today's school and enrollment. A more effective facility and the larger enrollment may make it necessary to consider construction of another facility on a different site, or expansion of the present site to accommodate a replacement of the older section of the building, as well as addition to the 1968 section.

It is recommended that construction of a facility totaling 19 classrooms be studied. There are currently 14 class areas in use, some with as many as 35 pupils per class. If at all possible, the new construction should utilize the entire 1968 section of the present school.

(E) Southwestern Attendance Area. The present enrollment of Tidoute secondary school is 187 pupils. There are 25 seniors, 28 juniors, and 32 sophomores; the 7, 8, and 9th grade enrollments are 39, 25 and 25, respectively. There is no realistic proposal for re-assignment of pupils which can bring the secondary enrollment of Tidoute High School anywhere near the aforementioned 100 pupils per class needed so that a broad and varied program may be offered at reasonable financial cost. Increased specialization of training and employment opportunities for professional staff have made it increasingly difficult, and in some instances impossible, to secure needed replacements for the staff of this school when resignations have occurred.

If, at least, the 10, 11, 12 grade pupils of Tidoute, are transported to Youngsville High School, this will result in that secondary school having a graduating class of some 160 based on present enrollments (actually 26 + 138 or 164 on October 1, 1968).

Transporting of the 100 pupils would require two buses and some additional rooms at Youngsville High School, which is currently operating with an enrollment of 866, and a functional capacity of 825. It is recommended 6-8 classrooms be constructed on a second floor addition to Youngsville High School.

Removal of the senior high school pupils to Youngsville High School would not only provide these pupils broader opportunities and more curricular choices, but would make available some needed instructional areas for the elementary and junior high school pupils remaining in the Tidoute School. In addition, it may be possible to transport the elementary pupils from Eldred Township area to the Tidoute Elementary School - thus reducing transportation time, distance, and cost for these pupils, while enabling consideration of rearranging attendance for Pittsfield elementary pupils who are now transported to Irvine.

(F) Central Administrative Offices. The operation of an 11,000 pupil, 700 employee school district requires a sizeable central administrative, supervisory, and clerical staff. Other central district concerns relate to purchase, receipt, storing, and dispatching of hundreds of thousands of dollars worth of supplies, equipment, and furniture, as well as maintenance shops and storerooms. At present, many of these activities are housed in the old Pickett Hardware Building, as a temporary expedient.

A permanent location for central facilities should be provided, either in a remodeled school building, or in a building to be constructed for this purpose. The Central Office will be more economically operated if located in or near Warren Borough, due to the nature of the district and the extensive travel required of directors and supervisors. If a building is to be constructed, location on the Warren Area High School site would reduce acquisition and site development costs to a minimum.

Other projects, financing of which may be from current budgets, and actions to be considered concerning assignment of pupils beyond those already listed:

- a. Possible closing of Plank Road Elementary (1 room school) assigning pupils to Pleasant Township Elementary.
- b. Consider the need for continuation of Irvine building, if Pittsfield students are no longer transported there, assigning pupils from Irvine to Youngsville Elementary.
- c. Additions, or use of temporary facilities, such as East Street when no longer in use by Edinboro College, to house the number of students beyond the capacities of Irvinedale, Home, and Market Street.
- d. Additions of library and or multipurpose rooms for Lacy, Home and McClintock Schools.
- e. Two room addition to Lottsville to make a K - 3 facility; if population growth occurs, 5 rooms to make a K - 6 facility.

Youth Sentenced To Death in Shooting

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — An 18-year-old East Side youth was sentenced to death Tuesday for the shooting death of a young father and his 15-months daughter.

Allen C. Young was sentenced to die March 15 by Cuyahoga County Common Pleas Judge Harry T. Marshall.

Earlier, a jury of six men and six women found Young guilty of the murders of Lee Seales Jr., 20, and his daughter, Tracy. The jury did not recommend mercy, making the death sentence mandatory.

The prosecution said the shooting occurred during an argument between Young and Seales' father.

Seales was shot to death in the front yard of his father's home as he held his daughter in his arms.

Congratulations to Kathryn Laurich, a Warren girl who was one of 10 semifinalists in the Cover Girl competition at Mount Union College in Alliance, Ohio. Unfortunately, she did not qualify for Saturday's competition when the winner will be Mount Union's entry in the annual Cover Girl contest sponsored by "Glamour" magazine.

Kathryn is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen A. Laurich of 438 Conewango ave.

New Judicial Bills Placed Before Senate

HARRISBURG (AP) — Bills to implement the new judicial article of the state constitution were moved out of a Senate committee Tuesday and placed before the entire body for consideration.

Many of the bills, which comprise the most pressing legislation before the lawmakers in the final weeks of this session, face amendment on the Senate floor, said Sen. Clarence D. Bell, chairman of the Judiciary Committee.

At the same time, Bell squelched talk that the legislature would adjourn without passing the judicial bills, and a special session would be called by the governor to take over the job.

"We have set up a timetable," Bell said. "The bills should pass finally Thursday of this week. The House has been advised as to what's coming out."

The House, meanwhile, met in its temporary chamber in the William Penn Museum and acted on several minor bills.

After the session, Rep. K. LeRoy Irvis, D-Allegheny, a minority whip, told newsmen he favored Minority Leader Herbert Fineman of Philadelphia as speaker when the Democrats take control of the chamber next year.

There had been published reports that Irvis was being pushed for the speaker's job by Pittsburgh Mayor Joseph M. Barr.

The judicial bills, among other things, would implement and amend guidelines laid down by the 1968 judicial amendment to the constitution. Bell had said previously that unless the judicial package was adopted prior to Nov. 30, there would be a complete breakdown in the minor judicial processes at the local level.

In an action related to the judicial developments, four Allegheny County senators introduced a bipartisan bill which calls for reduction in Allegheny County's magisterial districts.

Sponsored by Sens. Thomas F. Lamb, Robert D. Fleming, Frank Mazzei and Jack E. McGregor, the bipartisan legislation would go farther in reducing the districts than the current statewide bill. Fleming and McGregor are Republicans, while Lamb and Mazzei are Democrats.

In other action: The House Liquor Control Committee released to the floor a Senate-passed bill allowing restaurants to sell alcoholic beverages on Sunday if the majority of voters in a county give their approval.

The Senate passed 49-0 a $1.5 million appropriation to Hahnemann Medical College and Hospital in Philadelphia, and sent the measure to the House. Democrats had held up the appropriation since last August.

Arkansas 'Monkey Law' Interred by Court

WASHINGTON (AP) — Arkansas' "monkey law", a lifeless vestige of the fundamentalist fervor of the 1920s, was interred Tuesday by the Supreme Court.

The law, adopted by statewide election in 1928, made it a crime to instruct students in the public schools and universities that man evolved from the apes and other species of life.

Justice Abe Fortas said that by seeking to suppress the teaching of evolution in public schools, the state impermissibly took a stand for a particular religious view and thereby violated the Constitution.

"There is and can be no doubt that the First Amendment does not permit the state to require that teaching and learning must be tailored to the principles or prohibitions of any religious sect or dogma," Fortas wrote for the court.

Fortas said "fundamentalist sectarian conviction was and is the law's reason for existence." He added that the motivation undoubtedly was "to suppress the teaching of a theory which, it was thought, 'denied' the divine creation of man."

This was the court's major action as it ended a two-week recess. Other major decisions included:

1. The court declined to review a New York federal court ruling that peaceful protesters of the Vietnam war may pass out leaflets and otherwise set up shop inside the big Port Authority bus terminal in New York City.

2. Edgar H. Smith Jr., cell block author on New Jersey's death row for 11 years, will have a chance to try to upset his 1957 conviction in the murder of a 15-year-old girl.

3. Convicted atom spy Morton Sobell will have to remain in prison until next August. The time he spent in custody awaiting trial with Julius and Ethel Rosenberg in 1951 cannot be credited to effect his immediate release.

Fortas's opinion cut down the Arkansas law primarily on the finding it violated the First Amendment command that government may not itself foster any particular religion or religious theory.

Significantly, neither he nor the justices felt no need to explore the implications of the decisions in terms of "the multitude of controversies that beset our campuses today."

In fact, Fortas wrote that the justices felt no need to explore the implications of the decisions in terms of "the multitude of controversies that beset our campuses today."

The thrust of the decision, in Fortas's words, was this: "Government in our democracy, state and national, must be neutral in matters of religious theory, doctrine and practice. It may not be hostile to any religion or to the advocacy of no-religion; and it may not aid, foster, or promote one religion or religious theory against another or even against the opposite.

"The First Amendment mandates governmental neutrality between religion and nonreligion."

The Arkansas law was inspired by the Tennessee anti-evolution law that was tested at the trial of teacher John Thomas Scopes in 1925 at Dayton, Tenn.

Rationalism clashed with fundamentalism at the carnival trial, with Clarence Darrow defending Scopes and William Jennings Bryan, former presidential candidate and secretary of state, speaking for Tennessee.

Area Shoplifting Still A Problem

With most area retail outlets well stocked with merchandise for the Christmas shopping season, shoplifting continues to be a problem for many local merchants, who in some cases are plagued by shoplifters daily. Most merchants anticipate an increase in shoplifting during the season and have taken added precautions to prevent the loss of valuable merchandise to the shoplifter. One store has added both guards and door security guards to check packages and curb any increase in shoplifting during the busy shopping season.

FHA Wants More Red Tape

We have to understand the cut-back in federal aid to road building in Pennsylvania because of the crisis the federal administration faces today in Vietnam. But the new threat of possible delay as proposed by the Federal Highway Administration seems just a little too much.

The threat is in the form of proposed new regulations greatly expanding public participation in the planning of highways so far as "location" of the roads and the "design" to boot.

Basically the new rules would do this:

(1) Require the Department of Highways, in public hearings, to give full consideration to a wide range of factors, including social, economic and environmental effects, in considering highway location and design;

(2) Require greater publicity on public hearings, affording opportunity to testify and providing for consultations with various federal, state and local officials and advisory groups;

(3) In the publicity, the Department would have to describe proposed locations or designs along with maps and sketches;

(4) Require submission of detailed reports to Federal district engineers, including a description of alternatives, reasons for proposing a particular route or design, and "an analysis of the relative consistency of the alternatives with the goals and objectives of any urban plan that has been adopted by the community concerned."

(5) Establish procedure for the appeal of location and design decisions directly to the Federal Highway Administration.

We are not against allowing the public involved expressing their views on the matter of highways. But we do know that under the present system there are already too many snags to delay road construction. This proposal could almost kill plans for new roads built with federal aid as it enables anyone to question design or location through direct appeal to the FHA even if they know absolutely nothing about highway design. Such objections could hold up road projects indefinitely while bureaucratic red tape is being unraveled.

The executive secretary of the American Association of State Highway Officials put it this way: "This definitely encroaches on States' rights in this area . . . this will encourage dissident groups to bog down any project they wish."

This makes it hard to talk about progress.

Why Humphrey Lost

WASHINGTON—There are a lot of post-mortems going on now as to why Vice President Hubert Humphrey lost the election. I have been conducting one myself, and the conclusion I have come to is that the one person responsible for Humphrey's defeat was Mayor Richard Daley of Chicago.

To understand what happened, you have to have some background on Cook County politics. The Democratic people of Cook County are among the most patriotic in the country. Some of them not only vote once, but twice and three times if they're interested in the election. Tradition has it in Cook County that even after you die you still don't lose your right to vote.

Every election year, ballot boxes are prepared for different precincts in Cook County. Then, depending on how many votes the Democrats need in Illinois to win, the boxes are sent in. Some years very few boxes are needed. Other years the machine needs every one they can get.

This year, everything was in readiness for the presidential election. The ballot boxes were stuffed to the brim, and it was just a question of getting the word from Mayor Daley when they should be released.

But something happened this presidential election year to Mayor Daley, as we shall see.

At about 11 p.m., election night, a Cook County precinct captain called in to City Hall to find out when he could start releasing the ballot boxes.

"We're not releasing any this year," the man on the other end of the phone said.

"Are you crazy?" the precinct captain yelled. "Humphrey could lose Illinois."

"The mayor says that he will not tolerate any skulduggery in Cook County voting."

"You got to be kidding," the precinct captain said. "I have three cemeteries still waiting to vote."

The man on the other end of the line said, "I know it's hard to understand, but something happened to the mayor at the Democratic convention. He became the symbol of law and order to millions and millions of Americans, and he doesn't want to hurt that image."

"But what about Cook County's image?" the precinct captain cried. "We've been able to deliver the vote here for 50 years. If Cook County can't control Illinois, the election will be up for grabs."

"The mayor told me to tell you that if he hears of one false ballot being cast this year, he'll send the police into your precinct and break every car window in the neighborhood."

"I can't believe it. We've worked day and night on these ballot boxes. We registered people who moved away from Chicago 20 years ago. We've had people voting who haven't been born yet. Don't tell us all our work has been for naught. What are we supposed to do with all the boxes?"

"The mayor doesn't care. He told me to tell you that if he can't win honestly in Cook County, he doesn't want to win at all."

"Even if it means losing the Presidency of the United States?"

"I asked him that and he said, 'What is a man profited if he shall gain the election but lose his own soul?'"

"I got to hear it from him," the precinct man said unbelievably.

"You can't. He's out in Grant Park planting chrysanthemums that the Yippies tore up in August."

The next morning, as the sun came up over the Conrad Hilton hotel, ballot boxes were being burned in every part of Cook County, and with them, going up in smoke, went Hubert Horatio Humphrey's chances of becoming the 37th President of the United States.

Since the leadership usually votes the interests of its constituents, it is obvious that the Senate will be controlled by the anti-Democrats. If we think of a Democrat as someone who supports the Humphrey view of politics, in Congress, of course, such fine distinctions are unknown. There, anyone can be a Democrat simply by calling himself a Democrat.

4. Ethnic analysis — Almost anyone can become a member of "the leadership" except for women, Negroes, city dwellers, members who face opposition when they stand for reelection, and persons under 70. Occasional exceptions are made even to these rules. The House for years has had a Negro committee chairman who serves with the approval of Mayor Richard J. Daley of Chicago. A few years ago it had another, but he became uppity and had to leave the country.

5. Passing a bill — The purpose of Congress is not primarily, as the civics texts suggest, to pass legislation. Nor is it, as many broken presidents have said, to prevent the passage of legislation. Its central purpose is to make sure that no legislation is passed until its enactment will be irrelevant to national need.

For this reason, passing a bill takes a very long time. The average time is 20 years. Thus, if Nixon's new men have any bills they would like to see enacted in 1969, they should get them before Congress first thing next January.

In 1964, Lyndon Johnson's last big year with Congress, it passed a vast quantity of legislation that came to grips with the national problems of the 1940's and prepared the country to meet its needs and responsibilities for the 1950's.

Legislation that goes to Congress in January will undoubtedly be passed in time to prepare us to meet the problems of the '70's by 1970.

6. Why do we need Congress? — Without Congress we would have no way to put off until 1969 what we could do tomorrow.

Philosophically, there might not be much difference, despite the fact that almost all newspapers are forecasting tough times for Mr. Shafer.

At the same time, with a touch of sad irony, it was a bitter defeat for Governor Shafer.

If there has been one vibrant personal clash in Pennsylvania politics it has been that between these two, Mr. Fineman, back in Harrisburg for the last few weeks of the 1967-68 session of the Legislature, feels it needn't have been that way.

In the early days of 1967, things were on the down trend for the Democrats. Mr. Fineman was elected "minority leader" of his party in the House of Representatives and quickly decided that he didn't like that title.

"We have 99 seats to 104 for the Republicans," he said at the time. "There is no real minority."

He then dubbed himself "Democratic Floor Leader." He also moved to make the Democratic Party in the House more democratic — with a small "d" by giving small town and rural members more of a say in policy. In addition, he staffed the Democratic caucus with people who were mostly from outside of the big cities.

Then he told the Governor: "We're here to help you enact legislation that will benefit Pennsylvania. We will not oppose for the sake of opposition."

(Sound familiar? It should! Said Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield in Washington the other day in relation to the new incoming Republican Nixon Administration: "We will not oppose him for the sake of opposition.")

Sitting in this columnist's office, Mr. Fineman recalled those days.

"We were sincere in what we had announced," he said. "But the Governor seemed intent on ramming things through the Legislature without our help. It is unfortunate he acted in this manner, but that is past history."

"We opposed his tax program because we believed that more fat — much more fat — could have been cut from the budget."

RUSSELL BAKER

Old Man Of The Hill

WASHINGTON — Washington will soon be inundated with happy Republicans. Once the real-estate agents have finished plucking them, they will be less happy. Then they will begin learning about Congress, and soon they will no longer be happy at all.

Those who come prepared to deal with the Congress they have read about in the civics texts will not last long. To help ease their ordeal, the following adult's guide to Congress has been prepared for easy insertion under the corner tab of every new Republican's desk blotter.

1. Membership — The Congress of the United States consists of approximately 300 men, most of whom are alive most of the time. They are referred to as "the leadership," a term that derives from their zealous efforts to lead the country into the golden age they remember from their boyhoods. Circa 1900-1910. Most of them are chairmen of committees.

2. Committees — There are many confusing committees in both Senate and House. One of the most important is the House Wilbur D. Mills Committee (known in the textbooks as the Ways and Means Committee), which has the constitutional duty of preventing the introduction of either equity or sanity into the income-tax law. It is named for its chairman, Wilbur D. Mills of Arkansas, who, as the third branch of Congress, is responsible for originating all tax law.

The House Wilbur D. Mills committee has as its Senate counterpart the little understood Senate Gravy Committee. (In the textbooks, the Senate Finance Committee.) Its function is to protect oil tycoons from exposure to the normal tax rates, and to create new safeguards against taxation for persons rich enough to show their gratitude with campaign contributions.

Among other fascinating committees are the notorious Senate White Supremacy Committee (sometimes called the Judiciary Committee) which is carrying the ball for slavery; and the beloved old House Bone-yard Committee (or House Rules Committee). The beloved old house boneyard committee's function is to trap and bury any legislation escaped from another committee if it might have been offensive to either Mark Hanna or John C. Calhoun.

3. Democratic or Republican? — The 91st Congress will be neither Democratic nor Republican. In the Senate, for example, nine of the 18 Democrats in "the leadership" are from states carried by George Wallace. Five are from states carried by Richard Nixon. Only four are from states carried by Hubert Humphrey.

Since the leadership usually votes the interests of its constituents, it is obvious that the Senate will be controlled by the anti-Democrats. If we think of a Democrat as someone who supports the Humphrey view of politics, in Congress, of course, such fine distinctions are unknown. There, anyone can be a Democrat simply by calling himself a Democrat.

4. Ethnic analysis — Almost anyone can become a member of "the leadership" except for women, Negroes, city dwellers, members who face opposition when they stand for reelection, and persons under 70. Occasional exceptions are made even to these rules. The House for years has had a Negro committee chairman who serves with the approval of Mayor Richard J. Daley of Chicago. A few years ago it had another, but he became uppity and had to leave the country.

5. Passing a bill — The purpose of Congress is not primarily, as the civics texts suggest, to pass legislation. Nor is it, as many broken presidents have said, to prevent the passage of legislation. Its central purpose is to make sure that no legislation is passed until its enactment will be irrelevant to national need.

For this reason, passing a bill takes a very long time. The average time is 20 years. Thus, if Nixon's new men have any bills they would like to see enacted in 1969, they should get them before Congress first thing next January.

In 1964, Lyndon Johnson's last big year with Congress, it passed a vast quantity of legislation that came to grips with the national problems of the 1940's and prepared the country to meet its needs and responsibilities for the 1950's.

Legislation that goes to Congress in January will undoubtedly be passed in time to prepare us to meet the problems of the '70's by 1970.

6. Why do we need Congress? — Without Congress we would have no way to put off until 1969 what we could do tomorrow.

Philosophically, there might not be much difference, despite the fact that almost all newspapers are forecasting tough times for Mr. Shafer.

At the same time, with a touch of sad irony, it was a bitter defeat for Governor Shafer.

If there has been one vibrant personal clash in Pennsylvania politics it has been that between these two, Mr. Fineman, back in Harrisburg for the last few weeks of the 1967-68 session of the Legislature, feels it needn't have been that way.

In the early days of 1967, things were on the down trend for the Democrats. Mr. Fineman was elected "minority leader" of his party in the House of Representatives and quickly decided that he didn't like that title.

"We have 99 seats to 104 for the Republicans," he said at the time. "There is no real minority."

He then dubbed himself "Democratic Floor Leader." He also moved to make the Democratic Party in the House more democratic — with a small "d" by giving small town and rural members more of a say in policy. In addition, he staffed the Democratic caucus with people who were mostly from outside of the big cities.

Then he told the Governor: "We're here to help you enact legislation that will benefit Pennsylvania. We will not oppose for the sake of opposition."

(Sound familiar? It should! Said Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield in Washington the other day in relation to the new incoming Republican Nixon Administration: "We will not oppose him for the sake of opposition.")

Sitting in this columnist's office, Mr. Fineman recalled those days.

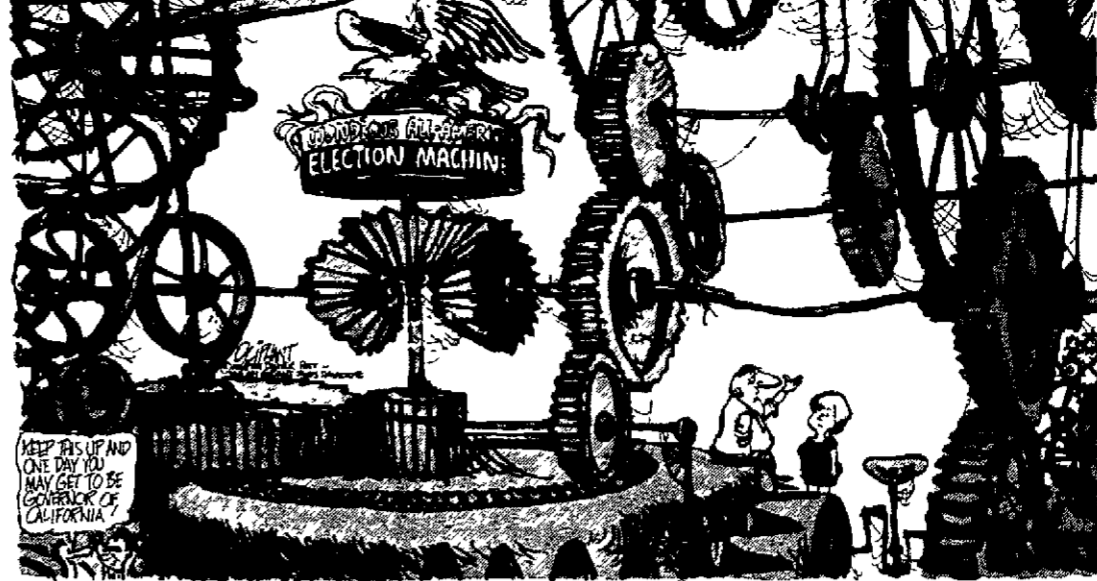

"We were sincere in what we had announced," he said. "But the Governor seemed intent on ramming things through the Legislature without our help. It is unfortunate he acted in this manner, but that is past history."

"We opposed his tax program because we believed that more fat — much more fat — could have been cut from the budget."

'I KNOW IT NEEDS FIXING, BUT RIGHT AT THIS MOMENT I'M SICK OF IT'

PEARSON & ANDERSON

Russia Nixon's No. 1 Problem

WASHINGTON — Biggest problem facing Richard Nixon when he becomes President will be relations with the only other nation which has a nuclear stockpile — Soviet Russia.

It is also the nation with the biggest arsenal of missiles — next to ours — the second biggest Navy in the world, and a standing army bigger than ours.

One week after he became President, Lyndon Johnson decided that if the two most powerful nations in the world — the USA and USSR — could cooperate, there could be world peace.

Since then he has worked hard at this policy, and on the whole it has paid off. The Russians have curbed their plutonium stockpile, lived up to the Test-Ban Treaty, signed a very important Non-Proliferation Pact, signed a consular pact which we wanted more than they, opened a direct airline between Moscow and New York, and expressed their willingness last spring to discuss a limitation of missiles and of anti-ballistic missile networks.

Incidentally, we have found the Russians scrupulous in living up to treaty agreements. Satellite observation is such that our intelligence services have an excellent idea what Soviet missile strength is and what tests are being made. Ever since the Cuban missile crisis, we have found that the Russians have been careful about their statements. In the recent Vietnam truce talks they did not promise too much, but made good on what they did.

Nixon, however, will approach Soviet-American relations with some handicaps. He has urged postponement of Senate action on the vital Non-Proliferation Pact. He has said during the recent campaign that he favored going ahead with the $50 billion anti-ballistic missile network; also wants to increase the missile stockpile. This is just the opposite of the Johnson policy.

Previously Nixon had visited Russia, engaged in the so-called kitchen debate with Nikita Khrushchev which he used in his subsequent election campaign to put Khrushchev in a bad light. The Russians had gone out of their way to give Nixon a rousing welcome, and remember vividly how Nixon turned a gesture of Russian hospitality into a matter of political expediency.

They also remember how he climbed to political power by falsely claiming that such non-communists as Rep. Jerry Voorhis and Rep. Helen Gahagan Douglas of California were pro-communist. All of this gives the new President a reputation for insincerity and political expediency with the government with which he must now do business if he is to continue the present policy of Soviet-American peacekeeping for the world.

However, the Russians are pragmatic people. They also recognize pragmatism when they see it, and they see it in Mr. Nixon.

Shortly before he was nominated at Miami Beach, he approached the State Department with a view to visiting Moscow. The Russians agreed. This is not hearsay, but fact. Then, following the Czech invasion, Nixon decided it would not be smart politics for him to go to Russia, and the trip was called off.

However, you can be pretty sure the Russians will still talk to Nixon. They'll probably keep their fingers crossed and be more wary than with LBJ whom they had come to trust. But the basic point is that the Russians, even including most of the hardliners, believe that the future of world peace depends on cooperation between the two super-powers.

They recognize that the United States and the Soviet Union have very similar problems, even down to students. In Prague the Czech students have been rioting against Moscow very much as Mexican students were rioting against the United States. The Russians will also definitely remind you — when you criticize their armed invasion of Czechoslovakia — that the United States put 20,000 troops into the tiny Dominican Republic only a short time ago for exactly the same reason the Russians went into Czechoslovakia: namely refusal to let a foreign ideology get planted in a country very close to one's own.

The question of Nixon's cooperation with Russia will first come to a head if President Johnson calls a special session of the Senate to ratify the nuclear Non-Proliferation Pact. He has been seriously considering such a move.

The Non-Proliferation Pact was negotiated with great difficulty. While the United States and the Soviet Union had little trouble reaching an agreement, they had great trouble with smaller countries.

West Germany, Italy, and Brazil, all good friends and allies of the United States, were extremely reluctant about giving up their right to nuclear production.

The Soviet Union also had trouble with some of its allies such as Romania, though Romania in the end signed the pact.

President Johnson feels that time is of the essence. If the United States, which initiated the treaty, does not ratify, we will lose forever the chance to get the approval of the smaller countries. This would lead to a nuclear race in which any little country could blackmail the rest of the world with one bomb.

LBJ is hoping that now that Nixon is elected he will change his mind about the pact.

Save on Taxes Now—III

(In collaboration with the Research Institute of America) Millions of you regularly take the 10 per cent standard deduction because this gives you a bigger deduction than you would get from your actual expenses for interest, taxes, etc. But by so doing, you may be missing an effective way of getting an even higher deduction.

If possible, here is what you should do. Shift some of your actual '68 expense into '69 or accelerate what would be actual '69 expenses into '68 — with the goal of boosting your actual expenses for one of the two years to more than the standard deduction. For that year, deduct your actual expenses because they are bigger than the standard deduction. For the other year in which your actual expenses will be less than usual, use the standard deduction. This procedure gives you a higher total of deductions over both '68 and '69 than you would get from taking the standard deduction each year.

To illustrate, say your adjusted gross income is $10,000 a year and your actual outlays for real estate taxes, interest, medical expenses, etc., run about $1,000 a year. You, therefore, have been claiming the optional deduction of $1,000 each year (10 per cent of your adjusted gross income, limited to $1,000) because this is easier than adding up your $1,000 of actual expenses.

Now, say you already have paid $700 of deductible expenses in '68 and in December you're due to get your '69 real estate bill of $800, normally paid by you in '69. If you could pay the $800 this year, you could deduct actual expenses of $1,500 on your '68 return instead of $1,000. Then, because your '69 prepayment slashes your '69 actual deductible expenses to only about $200 you take the 10 per cent standard deduction of $1,000 in '69.

Your total deductions for the two years come to $2,500 instead of $2,000, just by paying the $800 a few weeks sooner.

Now say that your 1968 actual expenses will be so low that even prepaying bills won't raise you above the standard deduction. In this case, try to reverse your tactics and to pyramid deductions into '69.

For instance, combine your delayed '68 bills with '69 bills and possibly even part of your 1970 expenses to raise your actual expenses for '69 well over the standard deduction.

Then take the optional $1,000 deduction in '68 — add up your actual expense payments in '69 to cut your taxes next year.

You can use a similar tax-saving procedure if you deduct medical expenses along with such other deductions as interest, taxes, etc. Medical expenses are deductible only to the extent that they exceed 3 per cent of your adjusted gross income, meaning that as deductions, your actual medical expenses in any one year are completely wasted up to 3 per cent.

Try to shift some of your otherwise wasted medical expenses from one year to another in order to bring one year's total medical expenses over the 3 per cent limit.

For example, say your adjusted gross income will be $10,000 in '68 and $10,000 in '69. Suppose you already have spent $300 on medical expenses in '68 and you plan to have $200 of dental work done in December, for which you ordinarily would pay in January. Suppose also that your other '69 medical expenses would not normally run above $100. This means that if you pay your dental bill in January you'll end up with $300 of actual medical expenses in each year, and no medical expense deduction in either year.

But if you pay your $200 dental bill in December, you will create a $200 itemized medical deduction which you take this year ($500 of this year's expenses less 3 per cent of $10,000).

One caution: you cannot deduct in '68 any prepayments in '69 for medical or dental work to be done in '69.

Tomorrow: Contributions.

JIM BISHOP

Will Lady Bird Let Go?

If I had known, last summer, that President Lyndon Johnson was about to write books, I'd have run for President. Everybody writes books, and everybody expects the pro expects a million dollar fee. Ironically, in the matter of the Johnson memoirs, a few publishers put the rap on the project, claiming that the President's popularity is low.

Erskine Caldwell had none when he wrote "God's Little Acre." Ernest Hemingway was practically unknown when he wrote "A Farewell to Arms." Herr Doctor Goebbels was hated, even in death, when his "Diaries" became a best-seller. Konrad Heiden's "Adolf Hitler" embraced a biography calculated to alienate all readers, but it is still the standard work on the Fuehrer.

The inside, unvarnished Lyndon Johnson story has never been told. No man in politics in the 20th century knows more about where the bodies are buried, and who buried them, than the current President. If he has decided, after leaving office, to tell the whole story of his political life, from the time he was Congressman Kleberg's secretary through the Los Angeles convention fight with the Kennedys, the Vice Presidency, the assassination, and his five years in the White House, he will have a series of runaway best-sellers.

As everyone knows, I am partial to this man because I feel that he was unable to communicate his high-speed industry and accomplishments to the public. He kept coming up on t.v. as a leathery Texan with a hard glitter. The growling voice had a high-noon pitch. His detractors said that he was devious, a wheeler-dealer.

In the matter of word usage, the President has faith in his wife's opinions. He told me that he would not make a speech of any sort without first reading it to her in his bedroom. He accepted her judgment in the matter of alterations "because she has a degree in journalism." This does not qualify Mrs. Johnson as an author, but it is safe to assume that any writing the President may do will be examined and pre-edited by his wife.

There is the weakness in the projected series of books, Mrs. Johnson is naturally cautious and charitable. She tends to yank the muscle from strong phrasing. If she can be persuaded to permit the President to tell a straight-forward revealing story, LBJ is bound to make the required reading course at most universities.

In their time, the Kennedys took over the book business as though they had invented it. The fees jumped higher and higher until, in death, Senator Robert Kennedy hit the peak with one million dollars for his version of the Cuban missile crisis. It was unrevealing and designed to make his brother look like a harassed hero, which he was.

News reports last week indicate that President Johnson's friend, Arthur Krim, President of United Artists, is the literary scout who has been rapping on publishers' doors to confer about the publication of the Johnson story — at, say, a million dollar guarantee.

Mr. Krim is a good business man, but he is hardly a literary agent. Of course, it can be cited that Ethel Kennedy sent Ted Sorensen out to peddle her late husband's little side-memoir for a million, and Sorensen the speechwriter is no literary agent. In spite of such economic triumphs, I prefer the pro to represent me, and it is hard to beat agents such as Phyllis Jackson of Ashley-Famous, and Don Congdon.

They know book royalty structures, first serial rights, second serial rights, foreign magazine rights, foreign book and translation rights, picture and t.v. rights, etc. For an author to select anyone except a literary agent to represent him is akin to acting as his own lawyer in court.

If I were a book publisher, I would inquire at once of Mrs. Lyndon Johnson if she proposes to write a book. She is the only First Lady who kept a daily diary every day since she moved into the White House. Her recollections of the great and awful days are already half-written.

As I said before, everything depends upon how much Mrs. Johnson is willing to reveal of her husband's private recollections and opinions, and hers too. Lyndon Johnson took a frightful pounding from the word-slingers while he was in office. He has a healthy revenge streak.

The title of the first book should be: "Now It's My Turn." . . .

Burglary, Mischief Investigated

Two cases of burglary and a case of malicious mischief and reckless driving are presently under investigation by the Warren County Sheriff's Department.

Deputy Sheriff Douglas A. Irvine reported Tuesday the Youngsville Whitley Wash, E. Main st., Youngsville was burglarized Nov. 7. Deputy Irvine stated that a person or persons unknown broke into three washing machines in the self-service laundry and made off with approximately $50 in quarters. Entry may have been made with the use of a master key, the deputy stated.

Another case of burglary under investigation by Irvine occurred Oct. 31 at the Seneca Highlands Nursery, RD 2, Russell. According to the deputy's report, a person or persons unknown broke into the Seneca Highlands camp and office building, ransacked the camp and made off with some $80 in change, one 30-30 caliber rifle, a 20 gauge shot gun and an automatic revolver. Entry to the building was gained by breaking a front window, Irvine reported.

The case of malicious mischief and reckless driving presently under investigation by the sheriff's department occurred Oct. 24.

According to a department report, the incident occurred Oct. 24 in Pine Grove Cemetery near the intersection of Route 957 and Route 62.

The Sheriff's report indicated an unknown driver drove through the cemetery in a reckless manner, through stones and gravel on grave lots. At one point the driver lost control of the vehicle when rounding a curve. The car spun around on the cemetery road and onto a grave lot. There was no estimate of property damage reported.

Leonid Brezhnev Boasts Communist Might Is Great

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — Leonid I. Brezhnev, secretary-general of the Soviet Communist party, boasted Tuesday that Communist might is so great "imperialists" are afraid of a military defeat in a direct clash.

Addressing the fifth congress of the Polish Communist party, Brezhnev also called again for an international Communist conference in the cause of unity.

The Russian leader restated the new Kremlin doctrine of limited sovereignty of Communist nations laid down after the August invasion of Czechoslovakia by five of its Warsaw Pact allies.

He defended that invasion, attacked Mao Tse-tung as a revisionist and praised the Polish Communist party and its leader, Wladyslaw Gomulka, for fidelity.

The congress hall was closed to Western correspondents. Highlights of Brezhnev's speech were issued by the official Polish press agency PAP.

Brezhnev said it would be wrong to discount the danger of war as long as imperialism exists. Although he didn't mention names, it was obvious he meant the United States and its allies in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, whose parliamentary assembly is now meeting in Brussels.

The Soviet leader said that, because of the Communist military strength, the imperialists are seeking "furtive tactics" to sow discord and drive wedges in the Communist bloc.

Brezhnev said it was important to keep inviolable faith in party doctrines "if we do not want to weaken our position."

He cited the "recent activation of forces hostile to socialism in Czechoslovakia" as an example of what can happen if "essential truths" are forgotten.

Brezhnev declared Communist states stand for strict respect of sovereignty, and "oppose interference in the affairs of any nation." Furthermore, the Soviet Communist party has always maintained that "each Socialist country should determine the concrete forms of its development toward socialism with due account for its national features," he said.

But he asserted all fraternal

FROM THE SPORTS DESK

By DENNY BONAVIDA

SHORT SPORTS: With the football season fast fading into memory, area coaches and sportswriters are busy reviewing game notes and making their selections for the various All-State, All-Section and like teams. This corner likes John Marchione and Steve Tundel from Warren and Tom Burleigh of Youngsville, while reporters Dave Pirillo and Dan Pratz are still busily at work weighing the abilities of Eisenhower and Sheffield players.

But the scholastic sports scene is far from stagnant as basketball and wrestling are just around the corner. It's a bare week and a half until Eisenhower and Tidoute open on Nov. 22 with basketball games, and Youngsville and Warren start the wrestling season on Dec. 6.

The Eagles' season tickets are now on sale at $8.25 for adults and $4.25 for students, and are available at Brown's and Pike's barber shops, the Quaker State gas station, Abplanalp's dairy store and the high school office. Jayvee games for Youngsville will start at 6:30 p.m. this season, a half-hour earlier than in previous years.

A quick check with the other county schools disclosed that their ducats will go on sale within a week.

Small game hunters are out in force, and the reports I've heard is that the bird hunters are doing well, the rabbit chasers are having fair luck, and the squirrel fanciers are finding the bushytails a mite scarce this season.

A Saturday afternoon trip to the Akeley swamp region proved singularly unproductive for Pat Hartnett and myself, as all we had to show for our efforts was a couple of spent shells sent after the vanishing tail of a solitary black squirrel.

But that result need not be taken by anybody as proof that the region is empty of game. Pat and I have a singular distinction, going back to our first ventures into the woods behind Washington Park as boys: whenever we hunt separately, we see and bring home game; but when we're together, some sort of mystic telegraph alerts every bunny, bird and chickadee to sit tight or stay in its home. Oh well, we get plenty of exercise, anyway.

Karate, anyone? Probably no sport or recreational activity has fostered more misconceptions among the general public than this Oriental self-defense discipline and its related forms of judo, jujitsu, kung fu, etc.

So if you're interested but confused, here's an opportunity to see the art in action this Friday at Eisenhower High's gym. Tom Handest of Warren and his Shuto Society will demonstrate techniques, present sparring matches and demonstrate the smash-the-brick blows which have gained much publicity for the sport. The demonstration is set for 8:15 p.m.

Word has been received that the Warren Lawmen and the faculty of Warren Area High School will battle on the hardwood this Saturday at 8 p.m. The game is to take place at Warren high gymnasium and is for the benefit of the Dragon Varsity Club. The annual affair has turned into a real hot battle between the two squads as both the lawmen and faculty hold one victory apiece. With the showdown taking place early in the season, anything can happen, and usually does at these side-splitting contests. Remember, that's 8:00 Saturday night. Lawmen vs. Faculty in benefit of the Varsity Club.

College basketball is about ready to swing into action also, and Erie's Gannon College and Edinboro State College are well into practice sessions.

A well-known name -- Calvin Murphy -- will be the first nemesis of note to face Gannon's Knights, as he leads his Niagara University mates into action on Nov. 30 in Buffalo's Memorial Auditorium.

Gannon has depth this year, and will probably send out a starting lineup of 6-8 Glenn Summers, 6-7 Ron Johnson, 6-8 Al Chrisman, 6-3 Bob Baker and 5-11 Gil Hidalgo. Larry Daly, last year's super-sub, is rated sixth man at this writing, but probably will see a lot of action.

Edinboro hosts Geneva on November 30, and coach Jim McDonald has seven lettermen plus a slew of sophomore talent going for him. Two big men, 6-9 Mick Unick and 6-7 Jim Mann, will not see action for the Scots, though, and that is expected to hurt somewhat. Unick is no longer in school and Mann had knee surgery. They represented most of the Scots' experience underneath.

Harry Jenkins, 6-4 guard, 6-2 forward Frank Smith and 5-10 guard Ron Weaver will tri-captain the Scots, while the height will be handled by 6-10 sophomore Art Dickinson, 6-5 senior Rod Herron, and 6-6 soph Doug Etzel.

Edinboro will be shooting for a repeat of last year's PSCAC championship.

A STRIKE AGAINST HEART DISEASE

Pete Juliano, proprietor of the Penn Bowling Center discusses details with Mrs. James Potter, chairman of the Heart Fund, for Heart Bowling week. Juliano, along with other proprietors in the area are co-operating with the Warren Branch of the Allegheny Mountain Heart Association in making the week of November 18 a success.

Lombardi Won't Confirm Rumors That He's Leaving

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP) — Vince Lombardi will remain in Green Bay as general manager of the Packers, until an angel alights on his desk and asks him to sign on the dotted line to handle the team from Utopia.

That, at least, was the terminology invoked by Lombardi Tuesday as he again tried in the strongest possible way to stem the rumors suggesting he might be leaving Green Bay.

"No one's contacted me and I haven't contacted anyone," Lombardi said without the trace of a smile. "I have no offers and right now no intentions of seeking any. As far as being a general manager I'd just as soon stay in Green Bay."

"But I don't know of anyone perfectly happy, and this is not a Utopia. Nothing is. If the opportunity presented itself for me to get some equity—then that would be a different position entirely. But I haven't heard of any angels ready to give anything away."

"Besides," he continued, "there would be a better chance of luring me away from here if we were winning; if everything was successful here, it would be easier in those circumstances—if I had any inclination about leaving."

The Packers, of course, haven't been winning. They now have lost two in a row and dropped into a tie for last place in the Central Division of the National Football League with a 3-5-1 record. But while that undoubtedly disturbs Lombardi, he also admits that not coaching does too.

"I made a decision to give up coaching and I'm sticking with it," Lombardi said firmly. "But it hasn't been easy. As a matter of fact, it's been quite difficult. Not during the week, because I have enough to keep me busy, but it's on Saturday and Sunday when it becomes difficult for me to divorce myself completely."

Lombardi's chosen method of divorcing himself and leaving the team completely in the hands of Coach Phil Bengtson on Sundays is to take a seat high in the press box away from the field.

"I'm still a young man," he said. "But I doubt I would ever go back to coaching."

Bowl Games Remain A Scrambled Puzzle; Penn Must Beat Maryland

By WILL GRIMSLEY

Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Unde-feated Penn State and Georgia have the inside track for the Orange Bowl and Tennessee the edge for the Sugar Bowl but all other pieces are scrambled in the post-season college football jigsaw puzzle.

Some important decisions will be made at the end of critical games Saturday but two of the major bowls, Rose and Cotton, must wait until Nov. 23 to seal down their programs.

Meanwhile, the preliminary shopping for talent is the most spirited and confused in years and Jack Baldwin of Miami's Orange Bowl Committee probably spoke for a lot of minds when he said Tuesday:

"It isn't like the old days when there were a few top teams, such as Texas, Alabama and Oklahoma, to choose from. College football is leveling off. There are now scores of top-flight teams and they keep knocking each other off. It's tough on the selectors."

Under National Collegiate Athletic Association rules, it is illegal to tap a team before the next-to-last Saturday in November—in this case, Nov. 16.

Here is the muddled bowl situation:

ROSE BOWL — Southern California (7-0) and Ohio State (7-0) favored but Southern Cal must beat Oregon State (6-2) and Ohio State must top Iowa and Michigan. Oregon State and Michigan could get the bids if they should upset the No. 1 and No. 2 teams.

ORANGE BOWL — Penn

State (7-0), third-ranked nationally, a clinch if it can beat Maryland Saturday. Georgia (6-0-2) will be the opponent if it can beat Auburn this week. Auburn also a possibility.

SUGAR BOWL — A strong edge to Tennessee (5-1-1) but the Vols must whip tough Mississippi (6-2) Saturday. Ole Miss remains a possibility if it can beat Tennessee. High-scoring Kansas favored for the other spot if victorious over Kansas State. The sponsors can't afford to await the outcome of the Kansas-Missouri game Nov. 23.

COTTON BOWL — The South-west Conference champion serves as the host team but this red-hot race is in a four-way tie among Texas, Texas Tech, Arkansas and Southern Methodist, all 4-1 in the league. Arkansas and SMU clash this week in Little Rock but the champion may not be decided until Arkansas and Texas Tech meet Nov. 23. If there's a three-way tie among SMU, Texas and Texas Tech, the latter will be picked because its last Cotton Bowl appearance predates the others. Missouri or one of the top Southeastern teams is likely to get the other spot.

GATOR BOWL, Jacksonville, Fla., Dec. 28 — It looks like Alabama and one of the left-over Southwest teams, Arkansas, Texas, SMU or Texas Tech.

BLUE BONNET BOWL, Houston, Dec. 31 — Auburn and Alabama liked, possibly to oppose one of the Southwest teams.

SUN BOWL, El Paso, Tex., Dec. 28 — Mississippi, if it loses to Tennessee, against Wyoming (6-2).

LIBERTY BOWL, Memphis, Dec. 14 — Mississippi high in favor as are Auburn and Alabama. There will be bidding also in the Southwest.

Of the top 20 teams in the most recent Associated Press poll, only 11 are eligible for bowl consideration excluding Big Ten and Pacific Eight teams. There are seven major bowls outside the Rose Bowl, or 14 available spots. This is the dilemma major bowl sponsors are up against, which is ending the sentence with two prepositions — and no propositions.

Orange Juice Limping; McKay Isn't Worried Yet

NEW YORK (AP) — O.J. Simpson is only 80 per cent of O.J. Simpson, but Coach John McKay feels that's good enough to win him 100 per cent of the Heisman Trophy as the nation's outstanding college football player.

"He's been the winning force behind our team," says the coach of top-ranked Southern California, which takes a 7-0 record into Saturday's key Pacific Eight encounter against Oregon State. "You hear that about a lot of quarterbacks but that's great to be able to say about a running back. We've won 17 of 18 games since he's been here against defenses stacked to stop him."

The fact that Simpson has been something less than perfect physically might come as a surprise to the seven teams that have held him to 1,201 yards in 247 carries.

"He has a little limp," McKay pointed out. "He's never fully recovered from leg injuries early in the season. But for a boy only 80 per cent healthy he's doing a fantastic job."

Simpson and Purdue's Leroy Keyes were Gary Beban's main competition for the Heisman Trophy a year ago and they were expected to battle it out this season. McKay was informed that Keyes also throws passes, catches them and plays some defense.

"If we wanted to play him on defense he would be a fantastic defensive back," the coach said. "He played safety in junior college and he was a great tackler. But you won't see him play defense at Southern Cal. We feel O.J. is a home run hitter and we don't have him bunt."

Bowling Roundup

The wintry weather and a cold snap took its toll on the bowling scores last evening. As a result, only two male bowlers broke the 600 mark and three women were over 500.

The 600 sets were compiled in the Sylvania Men's League by Hubert Barber with a 239-635 and Ross Kremer, turning in a 236-605. The high game was registered in the Pepsi League at the Sugar Bowl when Perk Mills rolled a 243.

Phyl Honhart once again led the ladies of the area with a 177-512 at the Penn Bowling Center. She was followed up by Jessie McMillen with a 508. Jessie also recorded the highest game for the women with a dazzling 236. Isabella Rapp, in the Sta-Later League at the Sugar Bowl, rounded out the leaders with her 186-508.

Bowladrome
Betts League — Jerry Cor-bran 215-570, Don Mimm 190-542, Myrtle Stenberg 154-452, and Pearl Grove 149-402.

Young's
Youngsville Church League — Dale Freeborough 212-540 and Jerry Westover 182-519.

Penn
Tuesday Nites League — Sonia Wilson 155-424 and Coke Rivett 173-420. Bev Polley picked up the 6-7-10 split and Rivett converted the 5-7-9, while Dorothy Lauffenberger slid the five pin over to meet the ten.

Ladies Variety — Phyl Honhart 177-512, Jessie McMillen 236-605, Phyl Rieder 198-498 and May Weber 157-450. Gale Johnson knocked over the 5-6-10 split.

Iowa Could Create Big Ten Deadlock

By DUFFY DAUGHERTY
Head Football Coach

An exciting college football season is heading toward a fitting climax because it will take the next two Saturdays to decide practically every major conference championship in the nation. The athletic directors who plan schedules years in advance are licking their chops.

While many people are looking ahead to pairings one week from Saturday, a number of games this week have taken on an added importance.

Unbeaten Ohio State and Michigan are headed for their big showdown in Columbus, Ohio, on Nov. 23 but this week the Buckeyes face a sterner test than does Michigan.

Ohio State must visit Iowa City to play Iowa, a team that has come on like gangbusters in the last two games by scoring a total of 103 points. Michigan has an advantage in speed for its game with Wisconsin and the Wolverines figure to polish their attack which has averaged 31.7 points a game in winning seven straight since losing to California.

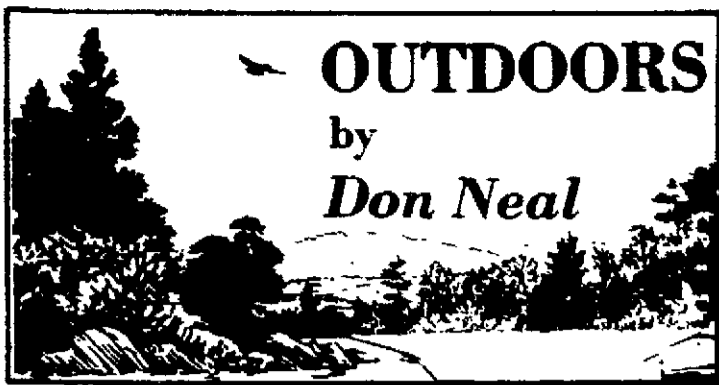

The Big Ten race could end up in a tie with Iowa, beaten four times, as the spoiler. However, even a loss by Ohio State would not change the importance of the Michigan game. This is the one the Buckeyes must take to reach the Rose Bowl.

In a Big Ten tie the conference athletic directors probably would vote the Pasadena trip to Ohio State since Michigan made the trip following the 1964 season. Ohio State's last visit was 10 years ago.

Meanwhile, Southern California has been hurdling one obstacle after another on its way to the Pacific Eight title and a return to the Rose Bowl.

The Trojans have O. J. Simpson, the No. 1 candidate for the Heisman award. On Saturday, Oregon State will try to answer O. J. with Bill "Earthquake" Enyart, a bruising 245-pound fullback. He doesn't have Simpson's speed but he has about 30 pounds on him.

The Trojans can't take the Beavers lightly, and fresh in their minds is Oregon State's 3-0 victory in the mud and rain last year. It was USC's only setback.

THE HIDDEN FORCE

At a recent meeting of the Kinzua Dam Vacation Bureau, Jack Miller, a biologist with the Pennsylvania Fish Commission, and I had a very interesting confrontation over whether or not year around fishing in the tailwaters of the Kinzua Dam would be practical. At a previous meeting I had offered the thought that the county could gain the same "tourism" advantages for our area as those enjoyed by Fayette and Somerset counties by having year around fishing in the tailwaters of the Youghiogheny Dam.

While the KDVB board members were rather interested at that time, they decided they wanted to hear from a qualified biologist before taking action on the matter as someone had questioned if such fishing pressure would be detrimental to the river. So Assemblyman Bill Allen immediately made arrangements for Miller's appearance at the next KDVB meeting.

Well, while Jack and I have been acquainted for a long time, I don't ever remember discussing the Kinzua proposal with him previously. But I have spent several hours on the subject with a couple of his superiors, Bob Bielo (executive director of the Fish Commission) and Keen Buss (chief biologist), so I am quite sure he was aware of the points that would be brought up. And they were.

First, he made a strong point of the fact that present regulations are set up to protect the fish during the spawning season and in a river such as the Allegheny where such species as black bass, walleyes and musky are present fishing for them during the spawning season could be detrimental. I agreed that this was possible if year around fishing on the entire river was being considered, but didn't feel that this was of great consideration where only a three-quarter mile stretch of the stream would be open. I felt that the river downstream from the dam, now that better spawning conditions have resulted from the dam's operation, would provide all of the natural spawn required to keep the river at top level so far as fishing is concerned.

From this point on we exchanged thoughts on all facets of what the arrangement may or may not do to the river and Kinzua Country's push to develop a year around tourist business. And to tell the truth, we both were well aware that neither of us dared bring up the basic reasons why the request, already endorsed by the Warren County Federation of Sportsmen's Clubs and the Warren County Chamber of Commerce, was being objected to. It's the kind of thing you just don't discuss at an open meeting --- bending the ears of a captive audience while charges and countercharges are stated --- but which seem to be pretty apparent facts when you consider individual cases.

For instance, Jack defended the arrangement at the Youghiogheny Dam by saying that trout was the only species to be considered there. He knows and I know that year around fishing at the tailwaters of the "Yough" were objected to just as strenuously until Joe Critchfield, a member of the Commission, stepped in. And that since Joe left the Commission there has been more than one effort to remove the concession by the biologists. Instead, the application of pressure at the proper point got them two more miles of "open" stream this year.

Another case in point is the concern Jack felt for the spawning walleyes and smallmouth bass of the Allegheny if fishing was permitted during April and May. However, he didn't mention the Youghiogheny River in the tailwater of the Youghiogheny Dam extending about one mile downstream. There is no closed season on trout in this stretch, where the minimum legal size of trout is 6 inches and the daily creel limit is 6.

Spring Creek, Centre County, in the stretch known as "Fisherman's Paradise".

About six-tenths of a mile, from the lower boundary of the Spring Creek Hatchery grounds to the upper boundary of the "Paradise" is open year-round under fish for fun regulations, but no fish may be killed or had in possession.

Five other "Fish for Fun" areas are also available for fly fishing under special regulations. In these waters, anglers are permitted to keep one trophy trout, 20 or more inches in length, but must release all other fish caught. Fishing hours are from 5 a.m. to 9 p.m., EST, or as posted. The use or possession of bait is prohibited in all areas and no wading is permitted, except at designated crossover areas and in the Yellow Breeches and Caldwell Creek projects. "Fish-For-Fun" Projects include:

TIMELY PLUG

Year around fishing at the Youghiogheny Dam got a nice plug in the news release put out by the Pennsylvania Fish Commission this week. This announcement going out to all newspapers in the state is the kind of publicity Kinzua Country would be getting if we had year around fishing in the tailwaters of the Kinzua Dam. Other areas where year around fishing is permitted is at the "Fish for Fun" projects throughout the state.

fact that on a considerable portion of another Pennsylvania river, where the natural spawn is desperately needed to improve fishing, the season on both species is opened on April 1, to run continuously until the next March 14. He knows and I know the reasons for this, and they have nothing at all to do with either the biological or ecological conditions in that river.

The fact is that the Pennsylvania Fish Commission is ruled with an iron hand by the politically appointed members of the board who don't give a tinker's damn for what the dedicated personnel favor or disfavor in the way of overall management. They are the kings and they want everyone to know it. So with one of these members to the east of us where trout fishing is the important element of the tourist appeal, and another to the west of us where warm water fishing plays the same role --- and with both inspired by an all-possessing zeal to protect their little private domains --- what can the communities along the Allegheny expect in the way of favorable concessions?

Personally, I favor year around fishing at the Kinzua Dam, both as a tourist bait and for the pleasure to be had by our local fishermen when the first warm, sunny days of spring come along in late March and early April. I'm certain they would get much more pleasure from fishing in the tailwaters for trout, bass and walleyes at that time than being limited to suckers as the only legal fish. But more personally, I hate to be denied what exists in other parts of the state just because their politicians have the guts to go after and get the concessions from the Fish Commission that gives them such advantages.

My friends in the Fish Commission at the personnel level have a standard remark when I rant to them about the actions of the board members --- "You said it, I didn't," they reply.

Duffy Feels Despondent At Michigan State Woes

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Duffy Daugherty, Michigan State football coach who generally is a jolly quipster, is finding the jokes hard to come by these days.

"This is the most heart-breaking, frustrating season I've ever experienced," Daugherty despaired. "We've never been out of any game. We've had a chance to win all of them. But it seems as if the law of averages has been declared unconstitutional."

The generally droll and smiling Irishman, now in his 15th year as Spartan head coach, had his worst season as MSU football boss in 1967 with a 3-7 won and lost season. He had a history of rebounding to heights after defeat.

The once roly-poly Duffy started out in great shape this season by losing 37 pounds and slimming down to his college playing weight of 182 pounds. His team won its first three games handsily, over Syracuse, Baylor and Wisconsin.

His Spartans have suffered four Big Ten losses since then, to Michigan, Minnesota, Ohio State and Indiana. Daugherty has suffered with them. The only intervening bright spot was the 21-17 upset of highly ranked Notre Dame.

Contributing to Daugherty's downfall were 28 MSU fumbles, 17 of them lost to the opposition, and 15 intercepted passes.

"We cured the fumbling in practice, but not in the games," Daugherty said. "If it were just one player fumbling, we could pull him out of the lineup. But the sophomores have been doing it, the Juniors and the seniors."

Michigan State was well ahead in the statistics while losing 28-14 to Michigan and 14-15 to Minnesota. Four fumbles lost and three interceptions in both games were the main factors in defeats of 25-20 by Ohio State and 24-22 by Indiana.

"The team has been playing it's heart out too," Daugherty said of his mostly sophomore outfit. "I can't fault a single player for not trying. It would seem we deserved to win a few more."

Daugherty, meanwhile, has dreams of building a dormitory league at Michigan State to provide a new pool of potential varsity football talent.

He recalled that as recently as 10 years ago, up to 200 youths would show up for spring football practice. Now, he said, there are only 80 or so aspirants.

Red Says Japan Has Top Players

TOKYO, Japan (AP) — Red Schoendienst, manager of the St. Louis Cardinals said Tuesday he was impressed by the skill of the Japanese players and would like to have at least two of them with the Cards.

"Some Japanese players are very good," said Schoendienst whose Cardinals have a 10-3 record in their 18-game goodwill tour of Japan.

"I would like to have at least two of the Japanese with the Cards—home running Sadaharu Oh of the Yomiuri Giants and Yutaka Enatsu, the left-handed pitcher of the Hanshin Tigers. Enatsu is one of the best left-handers I've seen. He's got a good curve ball and a good change-up. As for Oh, I don't believe we could pay enough to interest him."

Oh, who won his seventh straight home run title last season by hitting 49, makes about $97,000 a year, plus lucrative contracts for endorsements. Enatsu gets about $50,000 in salary, plus extras.

Asked about the Cardinals' prospects for winning a third straight pennant in the National League, Schoendienst said, "It's difficult to say how we'll do. Only time will tell. But we must remember that the Cards won the pennant even though several key players didn't have good seasons. This includes Orlando Cepeda and Tim McCar-

ver. "Some people say the Cards rely too heavily on Bob Gibson for their pitching. Not even ever has enough pitchers and we could use some help. We have several young pitchers in the minors who may be ready for the majors next season. One of them, Mike Torrez, is with us in Japan and looks pretty good."

Torrez scattered seven hits Tuesday as the Cards won 5-3 over a team of players from the Yomiuri Giants and the Hiroshima Toyo-Carps.

Schoendienst said he thought the Cards had strengthened themselves with trades. The acquisition of Vada Pinson from Cincinnati to take the place of outfielder Roger Maris, who is retiring was one of the most important.

"We are always interested in good trades," said the manager. "But I haven't heard anything lately from the front office."

Schoendienst had a word of advice for future U.S. teams who plan to visit Japan. "They should play in Japan right after the season ends at home," said Red. "The Cards came here 14 days after the World Series. It gave us two weeks of rest which doesn't seem much but it was enough time to get out of condition."

Bills Sign Rookie For Backup QB

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — The Buffalo Bills, down to one quarterback, signed Benny Russell, an untied rookie from the University of Louisville Tuesday.

The American Football League team said Russell had been granted a 17-day furlough from the Air Force. He was called to active duty with his Air National Guard unit and stationed outside Kansas City.

The Bills put in a call for Russell after Kay Stephenson suffered a fracture of the left collar bone Sunday. His loss for the season left the Bills with only Dan Darragh, a rookie hobbled by two ailing legs and a sore throwing arm.

Previously, the Bills lost veteran quarterback Jack Kemp and his backup, Tom Flores, because of injuries.

Coffee House is Warren Campus Project

By TRUDY STANTON

The students of Warren Campus are undertaking a large project which when finished will add to the college atmosphere. The second floor of the B and B Smoke Shop is being transformed into a coffee house. The Zodiac, as it will be called, will provide a place for the college students to gather evenings and on weekends.

Donald Rudolph, owner of the Smoke Shop has provided the facilities for the coffee house which is planned to open prior to Christmas vacation.

Each Saturday morning students volunteer and give their time to clean the rooms and prepare them for use. With a psychedelic color scheme being used, the walls and ceiling will be purple with black wainscoting. A flowing zodiac mural of fluorescent colors will be painted on the walls by Lois Beech. A zodiac circle will cover the center of the floor with tables along the walls. Upon completion of the coffee house all college students in the Warren area will be permitted to use the facilities by presenting their college ID cards and paying a nominal fee.

Service clubs including Rotary, Lions Club, Kiwanis, YWCA, YMCA and the Ministerial Association are assisting the students in their endeavor. Funds are also being solicited from private individuals. Installing the plumbing, heating, fire escape and finding needed appliances are the major projects yet to be completed. The coffee house committee is under the guidance and direction of the Rev. Donald Spencer and the Rev. Elmer Remmer. Quinn Smith is the adult manager.

Unemployment Continues To Decline

Total unemployment in Pennsylvania continued its decline in October, Secretary of Labor and Industry John K. Tabor announced Monday.

Based on preliminary data, jobless workers were estimated at 131,000 in mid-October, a drop of 8,000 from September. The rate of unemployment also moved downward — from 2.9 per cent of the total civilian work force in September to 2.7 per cent in October.

The national unadjusted rate of unemployment in October was 3.2 per cent and the seasonally adjusted rate, 3.6 per cent.

The current rate of 2.7 per cent approaches the best previous October rate established in 1966 when the lowest October total, 121,000 was registered. Last year at this time unemployment totaled 141,000, representing 2.9 per cent of the work force.

The reduction, according to Secretary Tabor, stemmed primarily from employment increases in the trade and government segments of non-manufacturing and re-entrants to the work force.

DYING PROFESSION

DURBAN South Africa (AP) — Heart transplant pioneer Prof. Christian Barnard told a graduating class of nurses that theirs was a dying profession. Barnard said nurses were becoming little more than "medical clerks" with more and more of the real work being carried out by nurses aides and other assistants.

"Nothing helps a doctor more than leaving a patient in the hands of a competent nurse. Not even the most modern medical machinery can replace a good nurse."

Bell Official Gives Tips On Winterizing Vehicles

The most common cause of winter accidents and traffic jams is "procrastination," according to the man who coordinates the winterizing of Pennsylvania's biggest private motor vehicle fleet.

William G. Philie, who directs the preparation of nearly 6,000 Bell Telephone Company cars and trucks for all-weather operation, says too many motorists "postpone precautions and trust to luck."

"People don't seem to want to get involved with anti-freeze and skid chains until the snow and ice are coating the roads," Philie says. "By that time, it's too late."

"Our preparations start soon after Labor Day and periodic checks are made during winter to maintain initial standards. The basic guidelines are the same as those used in defensive driving," Philie states. "Expecting the worst and being ready to counteract it is the best way to stay out of trouble."

Accountants Tour Buffalo Computer Center

Members and guests of the Jamestown Chapter of the National Association of Accountants toured the Marine Midland Services Corp. Computer Center at Buffalo, New York. The tour was arranged by Mrs. Ann G. Percy, education director of the local chapter and Don Lindquist, asst. Vice President of the Marine Midland Chautauque National Bank of Jamestown, New York.

Preceding the tour, a film on the many facets of accounting and the centralized computer center for a wide spread area was shown. The scheduling of the three shifts, covering the 24 hours of the day, to record the data received from the out of town banks via station wagon, truck and plane.

Seeing first, second and third generation computers doing a stupendous job was of much interest to those on the tour. The 24 pocket proof machines and the printer putting out 1,000 lines per minute were of particular interest. A question and answer period after the tour proved the entire evening an unqualified success.

Dinner at the Lake View Hotel with a tour of the new Art Gallery featuring an ivory carving which had taken 25 years to complete, rounded off the evening.

Mrs. Percy and Michael Percy, III will attend the annual public relations dinner of the Buffalo Chapter of the American Society of Women Accountants as representatives of the National Association of Accountants to hear Edward W. Umiker, district design engineer of New York State Department of Transportation.

average of $40 per vehicle to get its fleet conditioned for winter each year, Philie reports.

"This procedure — using a check list — has been developed through long experience. It can pay dividends in safety and comfort for every car-owner and save him money in the long run."

In Western Pennsylvania, Bell operates 1,900 cars and trucks and spends an estimated $1.4 million with local automotive suppliers annually. Of this amount, approximately $76,000 covers winterizing costs.

In the Warren area, Bell operates 53 motor vehicles. Philie recommends the following basic winterizing:

200-Year-Old Oak Tree Wins Battle to Stand

By MICHAEL L. WENTZEL

Reading Times
READING, Pa. (AP) — Right smack in the center of a two-lane gravel road in nearby Oley Township is a 200-year-old oak.

For years it was a traffic hazard, with motorists forced to swing around the 50-foot-high, four-foot-thick tree.

There was a clamor to cut it down — and an equally partisan view to save the historic oak.

While the controversy stirred emotions in the Berks County community of 400 residents, progress stood still.

The township's three supervisors finally decided to let the tree stand. They accepted donation of land so that the byway that now connects Yellow House Road with the Oley Expressway will be rebuilt on one side of the tree.

Work is expected to start on repaving next spring.

Highway officials aren't exactly elated over the decision to spare the tree, even though the road will be relocated.

"The tree will have to be treated," said one official. "It has rotted and will have to be strengthened."

Leon R. Sittler, Boyertown R. D. 3, whose property borders the tree, said he wants it to remain "for historical reasons."

"It's been there as long as I know anything," Sittler said. "The road goes back to the horse and buggy days."

Mrs. Lloyd Hopkins of Oley, member of the Historical Preservation Trust of Berks County, said "the tree does have a historical heritage."

"County records state that the tree was here when William Penn acquired the land. It was used as a point to mark the boundaries of the early land grants."

"Oley Valley annals call the tree the Huguenot Oak in honor of the Huguenot settlers of Oley Valley."

"It's been there a long time," said Dan Mast, another Oley neighbor. "People have been going around it for years and never hit it. I don't see why they're worried about it now."

"They don't bother about trees on the other side of the road. I don't know why they should bother about this one."

But township officials were concerned.

Earl Wolff, chairman of the Oley board of supervisors, said before the decision to save the tree:

"We met with two tree surgeons. There is only a six-inch shell of good wood left, and the tree is rotted into its roots. A good wind could blow it down."

"The tree specialists estimated that if we wanted to keep the tree, it would cost $1,000 to get the tree in proper shape and $200 a year to preserve it."

Sittler offered the land if the oak was preserved — and his offer was accepted.

Pearl Buck Tops List Of State Award Winners

HARRISBURG (AP) — Writers dominated the list of present and former Pennsylvanians announced Tuesday as recipients of the third annual state Awards for Excellence.

Topping the list was Nobel and Pulitzer Prize-winning novelist Miss Pearl S. Buck who was named recipient of the human relations and community service award for her work with orphans of Asian-American parentage.

Reporter Homer Bigart of the New York Times, winner of two Pulitzer Prizes for his coverage of World War II and the Korean War won the journalism award and Catherine Drinker Bowen, Haverford novelist and biographer, won the creative arts award.

Gov. Raymond P. Shafer named the three and seven other award winners at a luncheon Tuesday. Formal presentation of the citations, sponsored yearly by the Governor's Committee of 100,000 Pennsylvanians for Promotion of Economic Growth, will be made in Philadelphia on Nov. 21.

Other award winners are: Robin Roberts, a Philadelphia Phillies pitcher for 14 years and a 20-game winner for a record six consecutive seasons, the athletics award.

Roger M. Blough, chairman and chief executive officer of the United States Steel Corp., the industrial and business leadership award.

Dr. Britton Chance, director of the Johnson Research Foundation of the University of Pennsylvania Medical School and a pioneer in the field of enzyme chemistry, the life sciences award.

Dr. J. Presper Eckert and Dr. John W. Mauchly, dual science and technology awards for their work in creating and developing the first all-electronic computer, ENIAC, and the BINAC and UNIVAC computers.

Eugene Ormandy, conductor and musical director of the Philadelphia Orchestra for more than 30 years, the performing arts award.

Lt. Gen. Milton G. Baker, president and superintendent of Valley Forge Military Academy for 40 years, education award.

All currently live in Pennsylvania except Bigart, who was born in Hawley and still maintains a house there.

State Reimbursed For Fish Kill

HARRISBURG (AP) — The Buckeye Pipeline Co. has agreed to reimburse the state for damages caused by a broken pipeline last Sept. 13, Robert Bielo, state Fish Commission director, announced Tuesday.

The broken pipeline spilled pollutants into Shy Beaver Creek in Western Pennsylvania causing a large scale fish kill, Bielo said.

The pipeline company, he said, will pay the cost of restocking the waters. The exact amount will be announced later Bielo said.

Still pending, he said, is possible action against another firm in Meadville for a large fish kill in French Creek near Meadville. The state Health Department and Fish Commission are working jointly on that fish kill, Bielo said.

In Full Production

MEADVILLE, Pa. (AP) — PPG Industries said Tuesday its new multimillion dollar float glass plant is now in full production.

PPG said the plant began operations Oct. 7 and is now turning out 300 tons of float glass for auto parts every 24 hours.

Pre-Winter Storm Buffets State with Wind and Snow

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A pre-winter storm buffeted Pennsylvania with wind and snow Tuesday, with western Pennsylvania apparently bearing the brunt.

Up to 10 inches of snow was reported in some areas of western Pennsylvania, and the weather bureau said higher elevations would get up to a foot before the precipitation stopped.

Nearly all parts of the state received some snow, although it was mixed with rain in southeastern portions.

There were at least three storm-related deaths.

Schools in some areas were closed, especially in Fayette County where five to six inches of snow fell. There were some school closings in suburban Philadelphia, too.

A five-inch blanket of snow covered part of the Pennsylvania Turnpike at Everett. Police said one person was killed in a Turnpike crash.

Up to six inches of snow was reported in the Pocono Mountain of eastern Pennsylvania, with numerous school closings there.

High winds accompanied the snow in some areas, and falling limbs and trees were blamed for power failures.

A tree blocked the Philadelphia and Western high-speed commuter line between Norristown and Philadelphia for an hour and 45 minutes Tuesday morning.

The storm was blamed on a low pressure system moving over the coast and expected to pass over New England Tuesday night.

Harrisburg got upwards of two inches during the day. It was a heavy, wet snow, causing bushes to bend and wires to sag. Some wires snapped under the load, causing some power failures.

A twin-engine plane made an emergency landing at the Wilkes-Barre-Scranton airport in almost zero visibility. The pilot said his carburetors were icing up and his plane was vibrating so severely windshield on both sides were cracked.

Gary Riddell, 26, Skoytown suffered a fatal heart attack while pushing autos stalled in the snow near Skoytown, Somerset County.

The death of a retired Lycoming College professor was blamed on the storm. The victim was Dr. James Milton Skeath, 70, emeritus professor of psychology at Lycoming College.

Authorities said Dr. Skeath's auto stalled in a snowbank 500 feet from his home in nearby Loyalsock Township, and he was overcome as he tried to get it under way again. The professor was pronounced dead on arrival at Williamsport Hospital.

Snow ranged up to a depth of seven inches in the Williamsport area.

Some schools in adjoining Northumberland County were closed and the children sent home before noon.

From four to six inches of snow were indicated for the Harrisburg area, which was plagued by slick roads, traffic jams, and temporary power failures.

Snow-covered highways also contributed to one freak accident on the Pennsylvania Turnpike which resulted in the death of a 5-year-old girl.

State Police said the accident occurred about five miles east of the Willow Hill Interchange in Franklin County when a pickup truck driven by Mrs. Patricia Rowlette, 32, of Spotswood, N. J., apparently went out of control in the eastbound lanes.

Mrs. Rowlette's three children, Nancy, 5, Diana, 9, and Wallace Rowlette Jr., 7, were thrown from the vehicle and a tractor-trailer rig following the truck ran over Nancy, killing her.

Ground Breaking For Chrysler Plant

NEW STANTON, Pa. (AP) — A formal ground breaking ceremony will be held Nov. 21 for the Chrysler Corp.'s new auto assembly plant in this Westmoreland County community.

Among those taking part will be Gov. Shafer and Joseph F. Kerigan, vice president and group executive — car assembly and stamping.

Preparation of the 300-acre site for the plant began Oct. 31. When completed, the plant will have 4,500 employees working in two shifts and assembling 200,000 cars a year.

Board to Discuss Long Range Plans

A meeting of the School Board of the Warren County School District will be held at 7:30 p.m. Nov. 18 in the Jefferson Street Elementary School. This will be a public meeting, as are all other regularly convened sessions of the board.

In addition to the usual items of business, the board intends to review the report on the long range development plan for school buildings, which is being presented as a series of articles in the Warren Times-Mirror and Observer during American Education Week.

CHRISTMAS SEAL GOAL IS $142,500

The goal is $142,500 for the 62nd annual Christmas Seal Campaign in this nine-county area, James V. Mazza reminds us, Mazza is Warren County Branch chairman of the Northwestern Pennsylvania Tuberculosis and Health Society. The drive, which started Tuesday, will end Jan. 1, 1969. Money collected during the Christmas Seal campaign is used to fight emphysema and air pollution as well as tuberculosis.

Christmas Seal Campaign Now Under Way in Area

James V. Mazza, Warren County branch chairman of the Northwestern Pennsylvania Tuberculosis and Health Society, announced Tuesday the start of the 62nd annual Christmas Seal Campaign against tuberculosis, emphysema, and air pollution. The drive is nationwide in scope and will continue until January 1, 1969.

The nine county area served by the TB Society, including Warren County, will be striving to raise $142,500 to continue and expand its vital health programs in each county. This county will be attempting to secure $15,532 which is a 5 percent (five per cent) jump over the 1967 total of $14,792. The increase will be needed to maintain properly all present programs and services in Warren County and to plan for expanded efforts in 1969-1970 when currently raised Christmas Seal funds will be put to good use for you, your relatives, and your friends. Just as your cost of living has steadily risen, so has that for the TB Society, which is another factor in projecting an increase in the essential fund raising goal.

In response to inquiries, Chairman Mazza reminds contributors that as a result of the nine county, five TB Society merger on April 1, 1968 all campaign preparation, mailing, and auditing has been concentrated in the Erie Headquarters' Office. This consolidation results in greater economy and efficiency, and eliminates the duplication of Campaign effort formerly carried on by all five TB Societies. You will not receive Christmas Seals from the Warren Branch Office, only from Erie. Mrs. Catherine Andersen of Warren can now devote her full time to the vital program work involved in the Chest X-ray Surveys.

Although money contributed by Warren Countians is sent to Erie, it is credited to and is used directly for programs and services in this County. The branch office is still located at 400 Market Street, Warren. Your friends representing you on the Northwestern Pennsylvania Tuberculosis and Health Society Board of Directors are Howard F. Dobson, Dr. L. W. Krespan, Joseph K. Krimmell, Vance C. Wright, and John M. Zavinski, all of Warren.

Christmas Seals are a matter of life and breath.

Gunman Robs Bank

PITTSBURGH (AP) — A lone gunman, with a mustache and long sideburns and brandishing a black revolver, robbed a Pittsburgh bank Tuesday and escaped with $410.

The man handed a brown bag to a teller at an Oakland branch of Mellon National Bank & Trust Co. and ordered her to "fill it up."

State Approves Rate Hike For Capital Blue Cross

HARRISBURG (AP) — For the asserted purpose of keeping pace with rising health care costs, the State Insurance Department approved Tuesday an over-all 19.33 per cent rate increase for Capital Blue Cross.

The hospital insurance plan which covers more than 327,000 subscribers in Central Pennsylvania will put the new rates into effect Jan. 1.

Insurance Commissioner David O. Maxwell estimated that 93,814 direct pay subscribers would be affected by a 13.09 per cent increase amounting to $777,648. The package provides a 22.8 per cent increase, or approximately 2,406,621 affecting more than 234,332 group subscribers.

Maxwell said the overall 19.33 per cent increase will amount to an estimated $3,184,269 in additional annual revenue for Blue Cross.

He said that public hearings and analysis by the department's actuarial had "substantiated the plan's need for the requested revenue to guarantee its financial stability."

The commissioner added: "During this critical era of the rising costs of health care, it is imperative that Capital Blue Cross continue to be able to meet its obligations to its subscribers and hospitals by maintaining adequate rates and appropriate reserves."

Maxwell also announced conditional approval of a revised uniform hospital cost contract proposed by Blue Cross. It will affect the plan's 33 member hospitals and nearly 42 per cent of the population of Central Pennsylvania which holds membership in Blue Cross.

Maxwell said in a letter to Blue Cross: "Our approval is conditioned upon the requirement that the hospital cost control incentives inherent in this contract be specifically enumerated."

Ann Landers

Answers Your Problems

ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: This may seem like a trivial problem but it is a very serious one. Please tell your reading public that when they admit themselves to the hospital or sign an insurance form or a legal document to please use their legal names and not a nickname or a shortened version of their first names.

I work in a hospital and the confusion and the number of hours wasted because people sign themselves in under nicknames and shortened names is fantastic. Example: Two weeks ago we had an Ann Larson who was really Annette Larson. We also had a woman who signed herself in as Ann Larson although her real name was Anna Maria Larson. Added to that confusion, we had an Ann Larson whose name was Anna Larson. The relatives of these women went nuts trying to find them. Anna Maria Larson's baby was tagged as the son of Ann Larson. This misinformation became part of his birth certificate and it was a mess. Once wrong information appears on a legal document, hours of extra work are required to make a change.

The involvement with medical insurance is another mess. If the name of the patient is not exactly the same as the name on the health policy, it can mean miles of red tape and months of waiting for the money.

So please, Ann Landers, I mean Ann Landers, tell them, will you? — SLAP HAPPY

Dear Happy: You did and I hope they listen.

Dear Ann Landers: I am a widower who has been going with a widow for over a year. I am 52. Nan is 43. My children are married. Hers are in high school.

I want to marry Nan and have told her so. She says she is not ready to give me a definite answer but has promised to do so before the year is out. I am almost certain she will say yes and I am not pressuring her.

The problem: Nan is affectionate when we are alone but in the presence of her family, particularly her children, she is very formal and acts as if we are nothing more than casual acquaintances. She won't even allow me to hold her hand. Isn't this ridiculous for a woman her age? — RESENTFUL

Dear R: No. I think Nan is demonstrating good judgment. Apparently she is not ready to make any announcements, and until she is ready, she wants you to keep your hands to yourself in the presence of her family.

Dear Ann: I am 41. My husband is 44. We have three wonderful children — industrious and respectful. Jim owns his own business and is doing well. We have good health, a pretty home, two cars and all the comforts an upper-middle class family could ask for. But I am not genuinely happy. I feel restless and unfulfilled. Something is missing from my life. What is it? — MRS. JOYLESS

Dear Mrs.: Trouble. Real trouble. That's what's missing. Stop griping and appreciate what you have while you still have it.

Alcohol is no shortcut to social success. If you think you have to drink to be accepted by your friends, get the facts. Read "Booze and You — For Teen-Agers Only," by Ann Landers. Send 35 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope with your request.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Hints From Heloise

DEAR FOLKS:

This is little ol' Heloise coming into your home again. Let's have a cup of coffee and talk about "bringing home the bacon."

Are you all forever needing a little dried or crumbled bacon for a recipe? Seems like I am.

Today I needed some for a recipe and had to get out a new pound of bacon. While opening the package, I got a terrific idea.

I picked up my butcher knife and whacked about a half an inch off both ends of that whole pound of bacon.

P-E-R-F-E-C-T!

I used what I needed for my recipe, put the rest in a waxed bag and stored in my freezer for future use.

So gals, when you bring home that pound of bacon from the grocery store, open the package and whack some off the ends before you ever put it away. But if you don't have time right then, you can do it easy as pie after it has been frozen. I do.

Your family is gonna eat that two (or maybe three) slices of bacon each morning anyway, no matter how long the slices are. They won't even miss those little tidbits you got on the sly!

Sure handy and saves time when you're in a hurry (and aren't we always?).

Heloise

DEAR HELOISE

I live in an apartment and I use a skirt hanger for drying my drip-drys. The kind that holds six garments.

I hang it over the bathtub and it can easily be opened and spread out so that the garments are completely apart from each other.

Dorothy

LETTER OF THOUGHT

DEAR HELOISE

Few women can share directly in their husbands' tasks, but they sure can make his home a sanctuary, a place of respite and encouragement.

Minister's Wife

DEAR HELOISE

Is there a way to remove a hair-oil stain from wood wall paneling?

Our family room is paneled and our sectional couch is close to a wall. My husband has leaned his head back so often that there is a dark stain.

I've tried vinegar, powder and several grease removers but nothing has worked.

I'd appreciate some help.

Mrs. B. Vennard

Does anyone know if oil or grease can be removed without marring the paneling and if so, how?

Just write to me in care of this paper. We'd all like to hear from you 'cause I'm sure this happens in many a home.

Bless you, Heloise

DEAR HELOISE

My home economics teacher taught me this:

To iron a sleeve without a sleeve board, roll up a thick magazine, insert it in the sleeve (the magazine will adjust itself to the size of the sleeve) and then iron away!

Frances Pearson

DEAR HELOISE

Guess how I take popcorn to my grandchildren without any spills?

I fill plastic milk cartons and secure the top with paper clips. With the flat bottom they can be set down without spilling.

Mary A. Elsenpeter

DEAR HELOISE

I use empty egg cartons for sorting coins and shells for my collections.

I write dates on the protruding parts of the cartons when sorting coins, and it makes the job much faster.

Luce-Penalver Marriage Is Solemnized in Clarendon Church

Standing baskets of white gladioli and daisies, tall wedding palms and altar vases of white carnations formed the scene at Clarendon Methodist Church on November 2, 1968 at 3:30 p. m. for the wedding of Sandra Luce and Octavio Penalver.

The Rev. R. C. Dowling performed the double ring ceremony with Mrs. Kay Jones as organist.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Violet McGee, of 101 Egypt rd., Warren. The mother of the bridegroom is deceased and his father resides in Puerto Rico.

Mrs. Lucille Miller of Clarendon, a sister of the bride, was matron of honor and was attired in a gown of cotton blue delicate nylon lace in cage silhouette over a fitted taffeta sheath. A satin cowl neckline formed a back bow atop an inset of pleated nylon. Her headdress was a matching blue petal cluster with a center spray of seed pearls and crystal holding a butterfly veil.

Bridesmaids, in identical attire, were Mrs. Carl Wolfe, sister of the bride and Miss Debbie Wolfe, a niece, both of Sugar Grove.

The attendants carried bouquets of pom poms and blue grapes.

Another niece of the bride, Miss Darcy Stitzinger, wore a floor length cotton blue gown with netted hair band and carried a bouquet of bronze and yellow pom poms. Her nephew, Robert Miller of Clarendon was ringbearer.

William Dyke, a friend of the bride and bridegroom, served as best man and ushers, brothers-in-law of the bride, were Miles Stitzinger and Kenneth Miller, both of Clarendon.

The bride, escorted by her brother, Mr. Karl Haines of Warren, chose a white acetate nylon gown with empire bodice accented with tiny bows and long lace sleeves. A white lace long coat over the wedding dress completed the ensemble.

Her headpiece was chantilly-type lace, frosted with pearls and crystals and supporting a ballerina length nylon veil. She carried a cascade bouquet of white miniature carnations and garlands of wedding ivy centered with a white hybrid orchid.

The bride's mother wore a rose-colored jersey street length frock adorned with a corsage of pink, sweetheart roses.

A reception following the ceremony was held in the church parlors for 50 guests, the hall decorated with blue and white streamers and white bells. Blue and white carnations formed the centerpiece for the bridal table.

Aides were Mrs. Vonnie Dunham, Mrs. Mary Hennessy and Miss Roxanne Littlefield, all of Clarendon. Mrs. Betty Stitzinger cut and served the wedding cake with the aid of Mrs. Vera Lane.

Pre-nuptial affairs were given by Mrs. Lucille Miller and Betty Stitzinger, both of Clarendon. The rehearsal dinner

MR. AND MRS. PENALVER

The couple will make their home at 419 Water st., Warren.

OPERATION ACTION AT HOLY REDEEMER CHURCH

"Operation Action" is progressing at Holy Redeemer Church. The most important element of the church's Religious Education Program -- the parents -- became formally involved in the program when they met Sunday with their pastor, the Rev. Joseph H. Seybold, the Sisters of the Divine Spirit and the High School CCD Faculty. This, the first Open House held in the parish, attracted a large crowd, as the pictures indicate. (Photos by Knight)

4 ♠ Pass 5 ♦ Pass

West handled himself in a highly commendable manner in defending against South's six diamond contract. The admirable restraint which he displayed throughout the deal led to a richly deserved profit for his side.

South opened the bidding with one diamond and North, who had a sound opening bid himself, temporized with a simple forcing takeout to one spade. South now felt obliged to make a display of strength and, to his suit was not very imposing, he jumped to three diamonds. It should be observed that there was no ideal rebid available.

North made a further temporizing call of three hearts at this point, sensing a possible slam in the offing. South was not certain of his partner's intentions, but he decided to temporize himself by bidding four clubs with the expectation that North would clarify matters shortly. North now invited a slam by jumping to five diamonds. South decided to accept the invitation with the hope that North had good diamond support.

West, who had listened closely to the auction, decided that his opponents were not too far off the mark and he maintained his silence to the end. The risk involved in locating his high card strength to the declarer did not justify the slight increase in revenue which he might obtain from a double.

Inasmuch as he expected the king of diamonds to be in South's hand since the latter had jumped in the suit, West decided to open the ace of diamonds to inspect the terrain. If his queen were located behind the king it would still be protected.

When the king of diamonds appeared in dummy, West was keenly disappointed, for his second trump trick had apparently disappeared. He concealed his feelings, however, and, realizing that South was in no position to be certain of the actual distribution, West calmly continued with the three of diamonds at trick two.

Declarer was admittedly confronted with a difficult guess. He finally decided that his opponent was not apt to lead the ace of trumps from a holding which included the queen. South accordingly played the king of diamonds from dummy and thereby sealed his doom.

Your Horoscope

By Frances Drake

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars, FOR WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 13, 1968

ARIES (March 21 to April 20)—Many will be timid in areas where you are self-confident, so lend a helping hand wherever you can. And, even though you are well qualified to handle the tasks before you, do avoid haste so as to prevent errors or miscalculations.

TAURUS (April 21 to May 21)—Continue in efforts and endeavors that are worthwhile, even if they still involve some extraordinary patience in the handling of details. Drop any project which, after testing, has proven itself unprofitable, however.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21)—Faced with some complex situations and or a few exacting persons, you may have to devote some extra time to study now to increase your know-how in handling. Don't make any financial commitments for the time being.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23)—Planetary influences somewhat mixed. You will be extremely happy over some situations, not so pleased with others. Take all with the Cancerian's innate adaptability and philosophical viewpoint.

LEO (July 24 to August 23)—Avoid haste and anxiety now. If you rush into things without first working out all details, you could be disappointed in results. Also, curb a tendency to be sharp with others when they do not please.

VIRGO (August 24 to September 23)—Take whatever steps are necessary to further advancement. If you have made errors in the past, this will be a good day in which to rectify them. Avoid bickering, pettiness.

LIBRA (September 24 to October 23)—Just one volunteer could get things started properly—and with verve.

Why don't YOU be the one to get the ball rolling now? I could pay off handsomely.

SCORPIO (October 24 to November 22)—A first class day for getting things done, making the most of time and opportunity. Capitalize on your innate competence, know-how and enthusiasm.

SAGITTARIUS (November 23 to December 21)—Lack of self-confidence could keep you out of the winning circle now. Don't let this happen! You are endowed with excellent judgment, fine perceptiveness and the ability to surmount all obstacles, so you have no reason to fear the outcome of endeavors.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 20)—Good ideas and efficient methods will be important factors in this day's success picture. A few bumpy spots are possible, but there are also straightaways for faster movement, artful procedure.

AQUARIUS (January 21 to February 19)—Eagerly go about regular duties and obligations, but as eagerly hunt for new assignments and hunt for the "tricky" spots. Impress others with your poise.

PISCES (February 20 to March 20)—Originality will not be absolutely necessary to the successful conclusion of an undertaking. You may do better by revitalizing an old method, updating past procedures.

YOU BORN TODAY? Many persons take a liking to you, eventually forming business partnerships, enduring friendships. You can, because of your outgoing personality, get along with just about anyone. You have a fine mind, a spirit of enterprise, money-making ability and a fine sense of values. You would make an excellent teacher or organizer; could reach a top position in the business world, as a writer or entertainer. Birthdate of Robert Louis Stevenson, writer; Edwin Booth, tragedian.

How to Keep Well

By Dr. T. R. Van Dellen

HIATAL HEARTBURN

A MIDDLE-aged housewife developed indigestion and heartburn just before her husband arrived for dinner. She was so uncomfortable that the family physician suggested X-rays and laboratory tests. The results were negative and "nerves" were not considered because the woman was stable and phlegmatic. The physician asked her for a detailed report of what happened just before distress began.

Before dinner she always showered, put on a two-way stretch girdle and dressed. The medic had his clew. "It sounds as tho you have a hiatal hernia. Let's repeat the stomach X-rays tomorrow morning and wear your girdle." His hunch paid off. When the woman put on the tight garment, the pressure on the abdomen pushed the top part of her stomach an inch above the diaphragm.

The hiatus is the opening of the diaphragm thru which the esophagus (gullet) passes to reach the stomach. When it stretches or is relaxed, the upper part of the stomach may slide upward into the chest, especially when the victim bends over, lies down, or applies pressure to the abdomen. In many instances, the esophagus is of normal length, but the chest is too long. As a result, the upper portion of the stomach extends above the diaphragm.

Many with hiatal hernia are never bothered. On the other hand, when intestinal acids regurgitate upward, the gullet is irritated, leading to heartburn and indigestion. In some instances, the lower part bleeds or becomes ulcerated. Regurgitation is more likely to occur after a hearty meal, lying down, bending (as to tie shoelaces), or when pressure is applied to the abdomen.

A bland diet with antacids after meals and before bedtime is helpful. Do not eat within three hours of retiring.

Elevate the head of the bed at least 8 inches with blocks. Lose weight and avoid restrictive belts or clothing. Surgery is suggested when symptoms persist or complications occur.

TOMORROW: Prolinsulin.

Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.

THREE EAR OPERATIONS

A reader writes: I have heard there are three operations to cure hearing defects. What are these called?

REPLY: Deafness due to otosclerosis may be relieved by the fenestration operation, by stapes mobilization, or by the procedure called fenestra ovals, in which a tiny opening is made thru the middle of the edge of the footplate into the labyrinth. This is technical, but you asked for it!

TEST FOR ARTHRITIS

A reader writes: I heard that there is a blood test that detects arthritis. Doesn't an arthritic know when his joints hurt?

REPLY: Yes, and in this respect the test is of value. On the other hand, not all aches represent arthritis. The test helps to differentiate between the various types of rheumatic diseases.

CORONER'S TRAINING

A reader writes: Does a coroner have as much medical training as a physician?

REPLY: The necessary qualifications depend upon local rules. In many areas, the coroner is not a physician, but a politician with little or no training for the job.

FAMILY DINNER

A delightful variation on a popular cream cheese cookie.
Liver and Onions
Mashed Potatoes
Green Peas
Salad Bowl
Chocolate Orange Cookies
+ CHOCOLATE ORANGE COOKIES
1 cup sifted flour
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/4 pound (1 stick) butter or margarine
1 package (3 ounces) cream cheese
1/2 cup sugar
1 egg yolk (from a large egg)
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 1/2 teaspoons grated orange rind (rind of 1 medium orange)
1 package (6 ounces) semi-sweet chocolate pieces (1 cup)
On wax paper sift together the flour and salt. In a medium mixing bowl cream together the butter, cream cheese and sugar; thoroughly beat in egg yolk, vanilla and orange rind. Stir in flour mixture, then chocolate. Drop level tablespoons of dough, about 1 1/2 inches apart, on buttered cookie sheets. Bake in a preheated 350-degree oven until lightly browned around edges—about 15 minutes. With a wide spatula, remove to wire racks to cool. Store in tightly covered tin box. Makes about 33 cookies.

FAMILY LUNCH

An excellent way to use leftover chicken.
Chicken and Tomato Salad
Hot Rolls
Fresh Fruit
Cookies
+ CHICKEN AND TOMATO SALAD
1/3 cup mayonnaise
2 teaspoons lemon juice
1/4 teaspoon salt
1 small scallion (green onion), minced and including green top
1 cup diced cooked chicken, packed down
1/2 cup diced celery
3 medium tomatoes
Salad greens
In a medium mixing bowl, stir together the mayonnaise, lemon juice, salt and scallion; mix in chicken and celery. Cut out stem ends from tomatoes; cut each into 6 wedges without cutting through bottom; spread wedges slightly apart; spoon chicken salad into center of tomatoes. Serve on salad greens. Makes 3 servings. Recipe may be doubled.

COMPANY DINNER

This way of giving roast lamb a flavorful touch may be new to you.
Parsley Lamb
Baked Barley
Snap Beans
Salad Bowl
Pineapple Upside-down Cake
+ PARSLEY LAMB
4 1/4 pounds (about) shank half of leg of lamb, boned and tied (about 3 pounds after boning)
1/2 cup finely chopped parsley
1 tablespoon olive oil
1 large clove garlic, crushed
Salt, pepper and paprika
Have a good portion of the fat cut away from surface of roast. In a small mixing bowl, mix together the parsley, oil and garlic; stuff mixture into space left when shank bone was removed. Use a small spoon and your fingers to do this, from both ends of roast, without disturbing string that binds meat. Sprinkle surface of lamb with salt, pepper and paprika. Place meat on a straight rack in a shallow roast pan; roast in a 350-degree oven until lamb is as done as you like — 165 to 170 degrees on a meat thermometer for meat with a pink tinge, 180 degrees for well-done meat. Count on 35 to 40 minutes per pound. Fat may be skimmed from drippings in pan and drippings used for natural or slightly thickened gravy. When lamb is carved, spoon a bit of the parsley mixture over slices.

SUNDAY BRUNCH

A hearty hot bread!
Tomato Juice
Shirred Eggs with Cheese
Sizzled Ham
Cornmeal Fritters
Beverage
+ CORNMEAL FRITTERS
3 tablespoons butter or margarine, soft
1 cup sugar
2 eggs well beaten
3 cups sifted flour
1 cup enriched cornmeal
3 1/2 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon nutmeg
1 cup milk
Confectioners' sugar
Beat together butter and sugar until blended. Add eggs; beat well. Sift together flour, cornmeal, baking powder, salt and nutmeg; add alternately with milk to butter-sugar mixture, beating well after each addition. Drop by rounded tablespoons into hot deep fat (375 degrees). Fry 5 to 6 minutes or until golden-brown. Turn once during frying. Drain on absorbent paper; sift confectioners' sugar over fritters. Makes 2 dozen.

County Guidance Counselors Meet on New Project Tonight

The first meeting for the Rural Guidance Program, a new federal education project under Title III of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act, will be held at the Warren Area High School at 7:30 p. m. today.

High school guidance counselors from the Warren, Elsenhower, Sheffield, and Youngsville high schools are to use a creative approach in helping participating tenth grade students to solve the general problems connected with making plans beyond high school. It ultimately concerns gaining entrance into the work force or admission to an institution of higher education.

Terry Hook, local coordinator of the project and guidance counselor at Youngsville High School reports that the first meeting will be an orientation meeting for participating students, their parents, and the counselors.

Michael Caine Says He Can Relax Now

LONDON (AP)—Cockney actor Michael Caine blinked in the bright arc lights and said: "I'm fed up with running scared."

The 35-year-old star of "Alfie" has made eight films in the last five years, but says he is going to ease off now that he is established internationally. "I made a lot of films at first out of fear that I wouldn't make it to the top, and then I couldn't stop making them because I wanted to stay at the top," he said.

The son of a London charwoman and a fish market porter, Caine had a tough time beginning his career as an actor. He now has a luxurious apartment near the American Embassy in London's Grosvenor Square, runs a white Rolls-Royce and receives a reputed 250,000 pounds ($600,000) a picture.

Caine, one of the movie world's most eligible bachelors, claims filming ruins his romance life. "I work too hard," he complained. "Look at me here, I'll be working until 7 p.m. By the time I get home and get my makeup off I'll be fit only for sleep."

Caine was speaking in an office overlooking the Houses of Parliament during shooting of his latest movie, "The Italian Job."

He plays the part of the leader of a gang of English crooks who pull off a daring bullion robbery in Italy. Noel Coward plays the mastermind behind the raid and American actress Maggie Blye provides the romantic interest.

Caine was full of admiration for the veteran Coward. "I expected him to have nostalgia for the old days... to perhaps be a little carping, but he's as turned on as anybody else," Caine said.

"He had enormously long speeches in the film, but he arrived knowing them perfectly. He was never late, not like some other actors you can find on films. His whole attitude is professional."

Caine applied some Cockney frankness to the subject of money. "It represents power and power represents freedom — freedom from the rent man and the telephone bill and the electricity bill."

"All that blah about money not making for happiness is vicious propaganda by the rich."

Caine's ambition now is to make a film about London — but not the swinging London some movies depict. "The swinging thing never really came off," Caine said.

we care

It's America's most popular! Why?

We think it's excellence of product.
Years and years ago, when we decided to bake
Jane Parker Fruit Cake, we also decided to bake the best.
That's why Jane Parker Fruit Cake was then and is today over 2/3 fruits and nuts.

Just enough cake to hold together the bounty of imported and domestic cherries, pineapple from the Far East, citron from the Caribbean, sun-drenched raisins from California and meaty pecans from the South.

We think, too, that value has made it popular.
IMAGINE, THE 5-LB. CAKE COSTS ONLY $4.59.
That's dollars less than you might expect to pay for such a fine fruit cake.

Now you know why Jane Parker Fruit Cake is America's most popular.
One other thing you should know: You can buy it only at A&P.

P.S. Wouldn't it make a great gift for someone?
